

Will Talk Peace With Malaysia

Sukarno Yields To Jakarta Rule

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — President Sukarno has yielded to his new government and has agreed to peace negotiations with Malaysia.

Radio Jakarta reported Monday night that Sukarno had told Foreign Minister Adam Malik he could meet with Deputy Prime Minister Abdul Razak of Malaysia to discuss ways of ending the 3-year-old undeclared war between the two countries.

May Leave This Week

Malik told newsmen today he probably would leave for Bangkok later this week. Razak arrived in the Thai capital Monday.

The Indonesian ambassador to Bangkok, M. Diah, returned to Jakarta for consultations and told newsmen that Malik and Razak probably would meet this weekend.

"We in Malaysia hope and pray that it will be possible to end this confrontation," Razak told a banquet in Bangkok Monday night.

The army-backed government dominated by Lt. Gen. Suharto has been trying to arrange an end to the sporadic war with Malaysia since it took power in February. But Sukarno, 64, who ordered the "crush Malaysia" campaign when the federation came into being in 1963, had steadfastly refused.

Advised Against Trip

Malik told a student delegation Friday that Sukarno had "advised him" not to go to the talks in Bangkok.

"The president was furious at me. He advised me not to go abroad," Malik told the students who were protesting the government's failure to curb inflation and deal with the country's economic woes. Malik told them the anti-Malaysian campaign "has drained us financially" and "led to price increases."

Sukarno claimed that Malaysia, a federation of former British territories in Southeast Asia, was created by Britain to preserve its influence in the area and as a threat to Indonesia. He sent raiding parties into Malaysian Borneo and to the Malay Peninsula and used the campaign to divert attention from economic woes at home and to enhance his prestige among developing countries.

Britain, Australia and New Zealand sent 50,000 army and navy personnel to the area to help defend Malaysia and the Indonesian raids were a failure. They have virtually stopped since the unsuccessful Communist coup in Indonesia last Oct. 1.

Press for Higher Medic-Aid Fees

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller was besieged by a group of doctors today as he left a public hearing on the state's new medical-care program.

The governor had spoken moments before at the hearing and had been warmly applauded by an audience of several hundred for his defense of the program.

Want Higher Fees

The doctors, who were not identified, pressed the question of upgrading state-approved fees for physicians who treat patients under the new laws.

It was difficult to hear Rockefeller's full answer. He conceded that the problem of fees was important and told them somewhat sternly to discuss it with his staff assistant on welfare matters.

At the hearing, Rockefeller cited individual cases of need in a strong plea for public acceptance of the state's new program.

Adopt Ordinances For Saugerties; Retire Top Badge

With only two interested citizens on hand for two public hearings held by the Saugerties Village Board Monday night, neither of whom expressed opposition to ordinances under discussion, the Board adopted both ordinances.

Saugerties Village now has a new ordinance regulating abandoned or junked motor vehicles in the village limits and providing for the disposition of these unsightly relics. Another new ordinance concerns parking and entering and exiting from the Partition Street parking lot. The front area of the lot has been designated for two hours only parking and the back of the lot for all day parking. All cars must now exit on Russell Street and all buses and trucks must exit on Partition Street.

Sewage Treatment Action

At a regular Board meeting following the public hearings, a letter was read from the New York State Department of Health, advising that Saugerties must take necessary action to provide secondary sewage treatment in accordance with the Pure Waters program. The village must provide the State with a schedule of plans to follow by this July. Saugerties recently received a $2,328 grant to help meet operation and maintenance costs of sewage treatment facilities. Village engineers will draw up the schedule of plans before the required deadline.

Fire Commissioner Donald R. McCaig advised the Board that fire warden inspections were started in the Village May 16 and will continue for approximately one month. He specifically cautioned all property chief executive of our City. In past years the Mayors who have served Kingston have invariably conducted themselves as gentlemen and have endeavored to resolve differences with various City Boards and Agencies in a manner conducive to good government and have, with very few exceptions, maintained cordial and constructive relations with their fellow workers in the City administration.

Calls Conduct Shocking

In contrast, your conduct, in several instances, has been shocking, disgusting, uncalled for, and, to put it mildly, in very poor taste. You have demanded the wholesale resignations of officials who have been elected by the voters of the City and County and who are answerable to the voters and not to your every unpredictable whim or fancy. You threatened and promised to resign if the Aldermen did not knuckle under to your high-handed demand to enact a sewer tax. Unfortunately you broke your word (nothing new) and did not resign.

This letter is prompted by your latest apopleptic outburst in which you have publicly threatened and abused the Board of Education of the Kingston Consolidated School District. I am in complete agreement with your desire to avoid any increase in real estate taxes but while I may not agree with some of the actions of the Board of Education and may violently dissent with some of their decisions, I still feel that they should be treated with respect and courtesy. They are, for the most part, devoted and dedicated citizens who are working on this most important board and are giving their time and efforts without any compensation. Some of them are doing so at a personal sacrifice. They, too, are the duly elected representatives of the people and not your "rubber stamps."

Need I remind you that you are the head of our Executive Department and as such you are President of the Board of Police Commissioners and that you have solemnly sworn to uphold law and order? It is unbelievable that you would presume to threaten to organize a picket line for the purpose of bringing the operations of the School Board to a standstill. A recent issue of the Kingston Daily Freeman carried a quotation from your letter to the Board:

"Think before you make any further commitments, or as Mayor of our City, I will ar-

Ky Given Pledge by Hue Rebel

Junta Shows Little Worry on Group

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The break in the ranks of the opposition to Premier Nguyen Cao Ky widened further today as the commander of the mutinous 1st Vietnamese Division in the Buddhist stronghold of Hue reportedly pledged his allegiance to Ky.

Defense Ministry sources said Brig. Gen. Pham Xuan Nhuan wired Ky saying he was giving up his opposition. It was not clear immediately whether he also spoke for the troops he commands. The 1st Division provides the military backbone of the opposition in the northern city.

First Break in Front

It was the first break in the rebel front in Hue, the remaining stronghold of opposition to the premier.

Heartened by its victory over other rebels in Da Nang, the military regime exhibited little outward concern over the continuing dissidence in Hue, 50 miles northwest of Da Nang.

U.S. officials continued their backstage diplomatic role, with contacts with the main figures in Hue, Thich Tri Quang and Gens. Nguyen Khanh Thi and Ton That Dinh, successively fired by Ky as commander of the army's northernmost 1st Corps.

Ky's ruling junta showed its confidence also by assembling 1,000 civilian and army representatives at a political congress in Saigon to reaffirm its power. Buddhists boycotted the meeting.

May Add Five Civilians

With U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge in the audience, the military chief of state, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, said once more the regime would carry out its promise of elections this fall for a constitutional convention. He added that the 10-man junta was considering a

According to Assemblyman Wilson, he has received a great deal of correspondence from dairymen all over Ulster County in support of the Henderson bill, and Wilson said he has informed the areas dairymen that he will do everything possible to see that the measure becomes law this year.

Assemblyman Wilson said the Henderson bill would allow stores to claim an exemption from the provisions of the State's milk licensing laws only if they did not deliver or receive their milk or milk products from

India Orders Return of Rickard Here

Following an extradition hearing last Friday, Raymond Rickard, Brooklyn seaman who stands indicted by an Ulster County Grand jury for the alleged killing of 2½ year old Victor Rossiello at Lake Katrine in November 1964, has been ordered returned to the United States from India.

India authorities have recognized the Presidential warrant of arrest and granted the application for return of Rickard to the United States. Assistant District Attorney Robert MacKinnon and Senior Investigator Michael Lismann of the State Police BCI unit at Lake Katrine, are in Madras, India, awaiting the necessary documents from Delhi, India, to begin the trip home. District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca expected the papers would be returned today and the local officials could start home.

Meanwhile the boy's mother, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Rossiello, 37, of 2023 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, is being held in the Ulster County Jail as a material witness.

It is charged by indictment that Rickard struck and killed the boy while the boy was residing at a trailer camp at Lake Katrine and then placed the body in a sack which was thrown from the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge. The body was never recovered.

Rickard, a seaman, left the country prior to the return of the indictment. He was apprehended when his ship arrived at Madras, India, and extradition proceedings were started.

Armed with a Presidential warrant, Assistant District Attorney MacKinnon and Senior Investigator Lismann went to India to return Rickard to the United States. Following a hearing last Friday India authorities directed that Rickard be turned over to the American officials for return home.

Formal signing of the order in Delhi and its return to Madras where Rickard was being held, will complete the legal procedure.

Aldrich Is Host To Press, Favors Ceiling on Costs

Big government and "getting our share of the money" expended in such government is the "big issue" in the campaign for the 28th Congressional seat representing this area, according to one of the two candidates seeking the Republican nomination for the seat now held by incumbent Democrat Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, of Ellenville.

Alexander Aldrich, of Chatham Center, Columbia County, made the comment as host to about 25 members of the working press and radio at a party Monday in his summer home at the Chanler Estate off River Road, Town of Rhinebeck, in Dutchess County.

Aldrich is scheduled to oppose Attorney Hamilton Fisa Jr., of Millbrook, Dutchess County, in the GOP Primary next month for the party's nomination to oppose Resnick in the November election.

Discounts Relationships While big government means big expenses, Aldrich said in a press conference following the party, there should be a "ceiling on costs."

He said that "qualification" should be the primary issue in selecting the party's choice for the Congressional seat, and dis-

Gov. Takes Self Out 'Forever'

Dissenters Known To Suggestion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's suggestion of a 1968 Romney-Javits ticket gives Republican moderates a combination many of them might be willing to chance in an effort to retain party control.

Naturally, there are dissenters to the New York governor's statement Monday that there is "a growing feeling among Republicans it might be nice" to have Michigan Gov. George Romney run for president and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., for vice president two years from now.

No Formal Endorsement

While not making a formal endorsement, Rockefeller said "with candidates of the caliber of these two great leaders we will be returned by the people of this country to national trust and responsibility."

Partisans of Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, who currently is on an inspection trip to South Viet Nam, gagged somewhat at Rockefeller's suggestion of a ticket they think their own man might well head.

No Nixon Comment

There was no immediate comment from former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who has been traveling through the country preaching a middle road approach to the Republican future. The moderates are looking toward him with less and less enthusiasm as he picks up more and more support from the conservatives who went down to defeat with Barry Goldwater in 1964.

Nixon, now a New York attorney, wouldn't say Monday whether he will be a presidential candidate in 1968, but told a Miami reporter that he and Romney probably are the top starters.

In Oregon, Republican Gov. Mark O. Hatfield is expected to be nominated for senator in today's primary. If he wins in November he will have a national stage from which to speak for the moderates.

Must Win Big

Romney is obligated to win big in his bid for re-election in Michigan this fall if he wants to stay in the front ranks of potential contenders for the top nomination in 1968.

He currently is talking about how the Johnson administration is "leading the nation down the road of inflation" and also has taken a critical stand against Johnson's Viet Nam policies.

Most party leaders say that neither an all-out liberal nor an

Attention Centers On Vote in Oregon

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Even as Oregonians voted today in their primary, a Senate supporter of President Johnson's Viet Nam policy said the Democratic balloting there does not amount to a referendum on Viet Nam — despite the general view to the contrary.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., acknowledged in an interview that the Viet Nam issue has some bearing but added local issues also were involved in the contest for the Democratic Senate nomination.

In any case, he said, it is unlikely any clear-cut indication of sentiment on the President's course in Southeast Asia would come out of the balloting.

In addition to Oregon, primaries are being held today in Florida, Oklahoma and Kentucky.

But national attention has centered on Oregon because Howard Morgan, 52, a former federal power commissioner, is a critic of the Viet Nam war and his primary opponent, Rep. Robert B. Duncan, 45, supports the President.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., another sharp administration critic, has strongly endorsed Morgan.

In any event, the winning candidate is assured of a tough election campaign this fall. Gov. Mark O. Hatfield, the prospective Republican Senate nominee, faces only nominal primary opposition in today's election.

Magnuson is head of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee which has the job of trying to elect Democrats to Senate seats. The committee does not take sides in primaries.

The Florida primary is a runoff between Gov. Haydon Burns and Miami Mayor Robert King High for the Democratic nomination for governor. Burns has attacked High as the "Negro

New Approach Is Taken in Second Drivers' Special

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Exactly a year ago today, CBS broadcast its "National Drivers' Test," which was carefully dropped in its schedule immediately before the long Memorial Day weekend, a spring holiday which brings a high accident rate.

Since then, the program received numerous accolades, and was rerun shortly before another bad traffic weekend — Labor Day. While no one really knows whether it saved lives, it did give a number of confident drivers some sober second thoughts — when they flunked the test, as many did.

On CBS at 10

Now, on the threshold of another Memorial Day weekend, CBS will present its second edition of "The National Drivers' Test," tonight, 10-11 p.m., EDT. Hopefully, drivers will again take the quiz, grade themselves — and have safe driving on their minds over the three-day holiday period.

"This time," said Bob Chandler, its producer, "we have an entirely new approach. We're taking up driving practices on expressways, for one thing. There will be a small section on simple car mechanics — windshields, flat tires and overheating. There will be an animated section on automobile safety, and a demonstration of how a driver can outrun his headlights at night — driving so fast in the dark that he cannot stop within the distance lighted in front of him."

The television program which has caused more glowing talk than any other of the past season, CBS' fine production of "Death of a Salesman," wound up in the latest national Nielsen ratings report in the 63rd position in a list of 106 programs. It achieved a rating of 15.5 and, in that popularity list was nestled

75 Quit GE Jobs

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — About 75 production workers in the Large Steam Turbine-Generator Department at the General Electric Co. have walked out their jobs in the fourth strike in that department this year.

The workers, members of the International Union of Electrical Workers, AFL-CIO, left their jobs Monday in a dispute over work assignments.

A GE spokesman said the walkout was in support of nine employees who left their jobs last Friday. The nine claimed they were required to perform an additional operation, he said.

between CBS' "My Favorite Martian" and "Lassie."

Not Actually Smash Hit

By this season's entertainment yardstick, such a rating does not constitute a smash hit since less than one-third of the nation's sets in use at the time were tuned to the Arthur Miller drama. On the same list, NBC's "Bonanza," in first place, had a rating almost twice as large.

Other shows in Nielsen's top 10 were, in order, CBS' Beverly Hillsbillies, The Red Skelton Show, The Lucy Show, The Andy Griffith Show, Green Acres, ABC's Bewitched, CBS' special, The Magic of Broad-casting, NBC's The Man from U.N.C.L.E., and The Dick Van Dyke Show.

NBC is already at work on an hour-long program about the wedding of Luci Baines Johnson and Patrick Nugent. It will be broadcast on the day of the wedding, Saturday, Aug. 6, complete with shots of the ceremony itself.

The special will show details of the preparations — White House decorations, food, writing of invitations, the bride's choice of china and silver, and include shots of prewedding parties as well as profiles of members of the wedding party.

The Bloodhounds

The zeal and efficiency with which Sheriff William Martin administers his office are commendable but we must question the wisdom of his most recent move in an attempt to achieve maximum police enforcement.

I refer specifically to the two bloodhounds Sheriff Martin has purchased with a view to using them in criminal apprehension and in the search for missing persons. So far as the latter is concerned the rarity of missing persons in Ulster County hardly justifies the cost of maintaining the animals.

So far as criminal apprehension is concerned little is more obnoxious than the use of bloodhounds. Much literature and the tragic Civil Rights struggle dramatically portray how the use of bloodhounds only accentuates the cruelty of might.

The care and feeding of two bloodhounds must be costly; with another few dollars Sheriff Martin could acquire an extra Deputy.

There is now so much brutality about us that any act that widens the area is reprehensible.

Sincerely,

New York City Budget Deadline May Be Extended

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Legislature and Gov. Rockefeller appeared ready today to grant a one-week extension of New York City's deadline for approval of the city's budget despite Mayor John V. Lindsay's latest attack on the lawmakers.

The latest round in the running feud between the Republican mayor and the legislators ended in the Republican legislative leaders accusing Lindsay of scuttling his own half-billion dollar tax program through an "intemperate" criticism of the lawmakers.

Infers Reflection

Lindsay inferred Sunday that legislators who oppose his requests for new taxing powers might be guilty of "political cowardice."

The remark upset plans for a Monday conference between legislative leaders, Gov. Rockefeller and Deputy Mayor Robert Price. The Albany meeting had been expected to lead to a compromise tax-package.

Price, who has been negotiating with the Legislature for Lindsay, cancelled his scheduled trip to Albany Monday. He has been in telephone contact with various legislators and Rockefeller, attempting to renew the compromise talks.

Assembly Republican minority leader Perry B. Dureay, is seeking an apology from Lindsay as a condition for further talks.

Scores Name Calling

Senate Republican Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges, says that nothing could have done more to scuttle the negotiations than Lindsay's "name-calling."

Dureay, of Suffolk County and Brydges, of Niagara Falls, represent the thinking of the suburban and upstate legislators who are vehemently opposed to Lindsay's proposed city income tax that would include commuters.

Both also are pressing for an increase in the city's 15-cent transit fare that Lindsay seeks to maintain.

The expected extension on the city's budget deadline, from May 24 to May 31, has little effect on Lindsay's tax bills, aimed at yielding the city $520 million. While the statutory date would be put off, negotiations on the tax compromise must get underway while the Legislature is in recess.

Adjourns to May 31

The Legislature adjourns today until May 31. On that date, the New York city council and Board of Estimate must adopt Lindsay's record $4.6 billion budget or make reductions or additions. If any changes are made, Lindsay has until June 14 to consider them and return the budget to the council or board with written objections.

If the council and board adopt Lindsay's budget they will do so on the assumption that the Legislature will approve the mayor's new tax powers. He has said he can not balance his budget without the new taxes.

The Democratic-controlled council meets today in City Hall. It is expected to adopt a "home-rule" message in support of the budget deadline extension.

The council also will consider a message in support of Lindsay's transportation unification bill. On Monday, the mayor clashed with the council, charging that rejection of his proposal would be viewed as a "cynical bargain" between the councilmen and "upstate leaders."

President Vows Try to Repeal Section of T-H

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has told the nation's labor union editors the administration will continue its attempts to get congressional repeal of section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act.

"We will have to try again and try again we will," he told 150 editors of union labor publications at the White House Monday. The section permits states to outlaw union shop contracts.

The President also told the editors the United States must continue to help all Americans, especially "those who have the least."

"We are no longer content in America with achieving only the greatest good for the greatest number," he said. "What we have done in the past in the service of our conscience is only a prologue to what should now be done in the service of our vision."

Johnson met with the editors after a meeting with Democratic Senate and House leaders. He was accompanied by several House members, including Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., who said the United States should remain in Viet Nam.

"I think it is as destructive a notion as possible that we may quit," McCormack said. He said the U.S. presence in Viet Nam has given people elsewhere a strengthened will to combat communism.

McCormack also told the editors one of the most important bills slated for House action this week is a measure to raise the federal minimum wage and to extend its coverage.

Expect Exchange Decision in July On Jersey Move

TRENTON (AP)—The New York Stock Exchange may decide by late July whether to try to set up a tax-free trading post in New Jersey.

At the same time, it was disclosed that an over-the-counter firm is also thinking about opening an office across the Hudson River and a large brokerage house announced it has taken a land option in excess of 10,000 square feet.

Arguments Persuasive

Keith Funston, president of the exchange, told a legislative committee Monday the exchange has found "persuasive" the arguments on why it should move all or part of its operations to New Jersey.

He said banning of a stock transfer tax "would add to your state's attractiveness," he said a decision may be forthcoming by the "latter part of July."

New York Mayor John V. Lindsay's proposal for a 50 percent increase in the city's stock transfer tax has prompted a full scale study by the exchange of a new site.

Another witness, James C. Kellogg III, a member of the exchange's board of governors and member of a site study committee, told the hearing that one of the nation's five largest over-the-counter stock dealers plans to establish a headquarters in Newark, the state's largest city. But Kellogg declined to identify the firm.

The over-the-counter market deals largely in trading of securities not listed on the New York or American stock exchanges.

Use Test Program

Funston said a first step in relocation of the New York exchange would involve establishing a small trading floor as a test program in New Jersey if the exchange's board of governors decide on the move. If customer reaction proved favorable, the new location could become the "central market," he added.

A constitutional amendment to ban stock transfer taxes in New Jersey would need voter approval in a statewide referendum. The amendment would require approval by two-thirds of the members of each legislative house before it could go on the ballot.

Legislative leaders expressed optimism that the measure would be voted on in the near future.

Funston emphasized that relocation in New Jersey wouldn't be merely a move to dodge taxes altogether. He said the state would reap substantial financial dividends in real estate, corporate and other taxes.

Meanwhile, Bache & Co. announced in New York that it has acquired a land option in New Jersey with the idea of moving some company activities to the state.

An official of the large brokerage house declined to specify what activities would be involved, saying they had not been chosen. The area was not specified.

Uganda's Unity Threatened By Internal Strife

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—Uganda's unity was threatened today by a growing dispute between the Bugandans and the government of President Milton Obote.

Kampala radio said Obote had declared a state of emergency in Budanga, largest and richest of the country's four regions, and imposed a dusk-to-dawn curfew after rioters clashed with police in Kampala, the nation's capital which is in Buganda.

Reports reaching neighboring Kenya said five persons were killed and several wounded. Police used tear gas to disperse rioters who had blocked main roads to Kampala and torn down telephone and power lines. Telephone and telephone lines to the capital on the north-east shore of Lake Victoria went dead about 8 o'clock Monday night.

Radio Kampala said three regional chiefs had been arrested. It charged that the kabaka or king of the Buganda region, Sir Edward Mutesa II, had "committed an act of treason by trying to negotiate with an external power."

Gave No Information

The broadcast did not give the whereabouts of the 41-year-old kabaka nor specify which foreign power he allegedly dealt with. But in a letter released Monday, the kabaka urgently had asked U.N. Secretary-General U Thant to help avert trouble stemming from Obote's sweeping power grant last February, when as prime minister he suspended the 1962 constitution, ousted the kabaka from the presidency of Uganda and took over the post himself.

Radio Kampala said the police had received reports that certain persons intended to create chaos in the four-year-old East African nation.

Beal, Newburgh Candidate, Scores Valley Authority

Voicing his strong concern for the "continued right of the people of New York State to decide their own destiny," John Wilkie Beal, candidate for the Republican nomination as delegate to the State Constitutional Convention from the 37th Senatorial District, pointed at the "apparent irresponsibility" of the state legislature today.

Mr. Beal said that he had written a letter to Attorney General Lewis J. Lefkowitz concerning the Hudson River Valley legislation. In it he said he was equally concerned with other legislation which was being rushed through with little consideration being given to the cost or eventual effect on the very life of the state.

The GOP candidate went on by saying, "I am vitally interested in what happens to the Hudson Valley and in its orderly development but am just as vitally interested in the rights of the voters of all parties in the Hudson Valley to plan their own futures to decide their own fates."

Continuing, Mr. Beal said, "I do not believe that any law, however well-intentioned, should be enacted without consultation and vote of the people to be affected by that law."

He declared that it is in this framework that he sent a letter to Attorney General Lefkowitz on Wednesday, noting that "it is this framework and as a Republican convinced of the validity of the principle of home rule that I am impatiently awaiting the opinion of the attorney general."

Senate Approves $150 Million Housing Measure

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A Democratic-drawn bill designed to generate $150 million a year in support of private, low-income housing had the approval today of the Republican-ruled Senate.

The measure—the major item to come before either house Monday—swept through the Senate, 40-19, with dissident Republicans casting the negative votes.

Report Bill Passed

Meanwhile, the Assembly voted 103-21 to require police officers in New York State to adopt the British system of advising crime suspects of their rights. The bill went to the Senate, where its fate was uncertain.

The housing measure, sponsored by Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia, would establish a $10-million revolving fund to aid local groups in obtaining federal funds for housing projects. The money would be repaid when federal funds became available.

Travia, the Legislature's top Democrat, estimated the fund would permit construction or rehabilitation of about 11,000 housing units annually.

Under terms of the measure, a $2-million fund also would be set up to assist prospective builders in applying for federal aid to develop and build the projects.

Must Advise Suspect

The crime measure would require police officers to advise a suspect of the crime under investigation, his right to remain silent and his right to counsel before the suspect could be questioned.

The measure reflects the Legislature's concern with recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions, which have resulted in the voiding of convictions because a person was not advised of his rights. The bill was approved, 103-21.

New York law now makes no specific provision along this line.

In other Assembly action: A bill that would require a new legislative office building to bear the name of the late speaker, Oswald D. Heck, met unanimous approval.

First Offenders Bill

A plan for permitting criminal first offenders to clear their records was turned down, 62-58, in the second defeat for the measure.

Heck, a Schenectady Republican, was speaker of the Assembly for nearly 23 years, until his death in 1959. The bill was sent to the Senate for concurrence. Under the amnesty bill, a person convicted of a crime for the first time could apply to a court to have the conviction wiped off the books, after he had completed his sentence and a probationary period. The Assembly also turned the bill down in mid-March.

Local Red Cross Aide Will Attend Saratoga Session

Mrs. Willard K. Walker, assistant executive director of the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross, has been invited to attend a three-day session for training of Service to Military Families leadership staff of Region I, Eastern Area, American National Red Cross, which will be held June 15 through 17 at Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs.

Attendance at this training activity is limited to approximately 30 employed leadership Service to Military Families staff from major chapters of Region I, which includes the states of New York, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

It is the purpose of the institute to provide an opportunity for professional development of chapter personnel. The content of the program will focus on deepening understanding of human behavior with emphasis on the effect of separation on military families, with the added dimension of extreme anxiety due to the Viet Nam crisis, the early marriage, and the young family of today and families under stress. Presentations will be made by two of the faculty of the Sociology Department of Skidmore College: Dr. Everett V. Stonequist, chairman, and Dr. Elizabeth A. Ferguson, professor and author of "Social Work—An Introduction." The presentations will be followed by practical applications of Service to Military Families case material with discussions led by chapter staff and will emphasize family-centered counseling.

It is expected that participation in the institute will provide impetus, stimulation, and practical help to increase the capabilities of Service to Military Families staff to handle their multiple responsibilities, including training approaches and methods to be used in developing non-professional workers and volunteers.

The Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross is a member of the Ulster County Community Chest.

City With a New Look

Smiles Light Grim Faces in Da Nang

EDITOR'S NOTE — Associated Press photographer Al Chang dodged bullets and walked around bodies in the streets of Da Nang last week to get pictures of the civil war there. The rebels surrendered Monday. Chang toured the city today to report on the change.

By AL CHANG

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — After a week of fighting and death in the streets, Da Nang put on a new face today. Smiles lighted the grim, intent faces of war.

Shops, barred and shuttered for a week, were thrown open to business. People again clogged the streets as they went about normal, everyday chores.

Policemen returned to their posts, replacing soldiers who had taken over armed control of major street intersections. The traffic officers had smiles as they made the precise, almost mechanical gestures which kept traffic flowing in the narrow streets.

Everywhere, tension was gone, from the faces of pretty young girls, withered old men and all the other people who made a town live.

The clamor of voices and motors replaced the chatter of machine-guns and the whine of bullets at a service station where I photographed a pitched battle a few days ago.

Down the street at the main market, where I had photographed another stiff fight, merchants and customers smiled as they haggled over prices. But the smiles could not rub out bullet holes in the walls.

Freese in Viet Nam

Feast of Weeks Starts Tonight At Jewish Rites

The Festival of Shevuot, or the Feast of Weeks, is observed seven weeks after the second day of Passover, according to a dictum in the Bible.

This was the holiday when the People of Israel would bring the first ripened fruits to the Holy Temple of Jerusalem. The religious significance of the holiday is the celebration of the great event of the Revelation on Mount Sinai, seven weeks after the People of Israel were freed from the bondage of Egypt. As they wandered through the Sinai desert, they waited at the foot of the mountain on which Moses ascended to receive the Ten Commandments.

The portion of the Bible Reading for the Feast of Shevuot is therefore the 19th and 20th chapters of the Book of Exodus, in which this event is described. A special introductory chant is read before the Bible Reading extols the beneficence of the Creator in presenting this doctrine of divinity and sublime teaching to mankind. The synagogues are bedecked with foliage to recall the pilgrimage to the Holy Temple with the first fruits.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MAY 24, 1966

DEFER HEALTH AID PLAN

Governor Rockefeller has rebutted widespread criticism of the controversial New York State medical aid program, but said he is willing to consider amendments and correct defects in the health aid plan. The measure was conceived hastily and passed by the Legislature and signed by the Governor.

To begin with there was too little information made public about all phases of the plan and very little consideration of its provisions. It is doubtful if the Legislators studied the project competently to become fully aware of the far-reaching welfare program. The Citizens Public Expenditure Survey, Inc., declares it is the start of socialized medicine in New York State, and if it becomes the pattern the beginning of socialized medicine in the nation.

From what we learn of some of the provisions of the bill, there is a vast difference between the state's medical program and the national Medicare plan, which will go into effect in July.

We are certain the Legislators gave little thought to the matter of eligibility under Title 19, which permits the state to pay the medical bill of persons with net income up to $6,000 and others who were not on public assistance. Mystery seems to surround this phase of the plan.

Public hearings are to be held on the Medical aid measure and this would seem to be the time to call for a deferment of the implementation of the program. In the meantime the necessary changes such as those dealing with eligibility levels and their cost could be made.

Some thought should also be given as to what will happen when the Medicare program goes into effect come July. Estimates vary as to how much pressure the expected influx of elderly patients will bring to bear on hospital facilities. The consensus among those best qualified to judge appears to be that, although there will be difficulties in areas where there already is a shortage of beds, on the whole present facilities will be able to deal with immediate patient-load increase.

When we have additional medical aid programs, the long-range situation will be something else. The importance of the expansion programs of our local hospitals can be readily appreciated.

HOMEMADE COMMUNICATION

Once we've put a man on the moon—or even before—wouldn't it be great if we could do something even tougher and establish contact between parents and their children?

Not that some moms and pops aren't getting along fine with their kids. Rumors keep popping up that this sort of thing is happening again and again.

But from what you see and hear, you have to conclude that in many homes the parents and children are not only on different wave lengths but practically living in different worlds as well. To wit:

"I may be a kind of a nut," apologizes one teen-ager, "but I kind of like parents." (He says it as if he were confessing he hates pizza and hamburger.)

"I simply can't get through to our boy," a father admits forlornly. "He regards me as a zombie. If I told him two and two make four, he'd give me an argument."

It's ironic and tragic that in a day when human relations and communications are very big and getting bigger, the family circle seems to be flunking both courses.

One father — a sincere type guy who doesn't say too much because he doesn't want to be written off as a know-it-all— favors a simple, homemade recipe he believes will relieve the situation.

He thinks parents should (1) expect obedience and respect from their children, beginning at birth and continuing from there on—and earn it by the personal example they set; (2) try harder to understand the kids, even if it means spending more time with them, and (3) exercise firm but reasonable discipline, no matter how much courage it takes.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

GUAYANA'S COMING INDEPENDENCE

Back in the days before he had admitted to the world that all along he had been a Marxist-Leninist, Cuba's Fidel Castro had a talk with Egypt's Nasser. What, so Fidel asked the leader of the Arab world, should be done to put Cuba back on its feet economically? Nasser's answer was a reflection of Egyptian policy: play it cool, maintain an official neutrality, and be ready to accept aid from both the Communist and capitalist worlds.

Castro, as history subsequently revealed, was unable to take Nasser's advice because of his precommitment to Marxist revolutionary theory. If Fidel had played it cool, the U. S. would certainly have outbid the Russians in the market for Cuban "non-alignment." We are that sort of nation.

On the twenty-sixth of May, which is Thursday of this week, British Guiana, which was once threatened with a Castroite takeover by the left-wing Dr. Cheddi Jagan, will become the new independent nation of Guyana. Fortunately for the whole western hemisphere, Dr. Jagan will view the independence ceremonies from the official doghouse. He is now a minority politician, and has even been deserted by some of his following among the East Indians in Guyana. The Premier of Guyana, Forbest Burnham, leader of the African ethnic element, is apparently firmly in the saddle, supported by the "swing" party of the third generation Portuguese, Peter D'Aguiar, who is his Finance Minister.

It is not recorded that Forbest Burnham has asked Nasser's advice about how to finance a new nation. But he served notice the other day that, unlike Fidel Castro, he intends to follow the Nasser formula of playing both ends against the middle. He said he would take economic aid from "anyone whose aims are not in conflict with the future of Guyana." And he added that "anyone means anyone," whether it be Mother Britain, the United States, Soviet Russia or Red China.

This sounds a bit ominous. But, translated from diplomatic wigwag talk into plain speech, it probably means that Forbest Burnham is asking for more aid from the U. S., Britain, and the United Nations than he is receiving. Certainly he isn't going to have much untied help from the Communists.

There have been rumors that Forbest Burnham might make a coalition deal after Independence Day with the Marxist Dr. Jagan. But nothing in the Forbest Burnham past sustains this idea.

It wasn't so long ago that Forbest Burnham, in company with Peter D'Aguiar, was busy elaborating a "books versus bombs" program to put British Guiana on the road toward development by encouraging local free enterprise. He appealed to the Lincoln Educational Foundation of New York City for books about the development of the North American continent under the free-swinging conditions of capitalist competition. Taking the advice contained in the books, Forbest Burnham has welcomed foreign capital; Reynolds Metals, for instance, handed him a check for some $250,000 not so long ago as a down payment for mineral rights in Guyana. The country is rich in bauxite, the source of aluminum, and it has gold deposits.

Moreover, there is an agricultural frontier to be exploited; fifteen miles outside of the capital of Georgetown there is plenty of land available for new farms. The country now imports rice and orange juice, which is a silly waste of good foreign exchange. Both rice and citrus fruits grow well in Guyana.

Despite its poverty, things are auspicious for the new nation provided it can end the terrorism that the local Communists seek to keep alive. The racial conflicts between the East Indian and the African elements of the population would never have come to much if they had not been artificially fomented by Dr. Jagan's Marxist cadres. At one time the terrorists burned a good part of the metropolis of Georgetown, even chopping the firehoses to help the conflagration along. This sort of thing has died down a bit, but Forbest Burnham has taken the precaution to jail a few score of the Marxist cut-throats. But if the country can't solve its economic problems, the cut-throats who are still out of jail will multiply. This is the reason Forbest Burnham is asking economic aid from "anyone" with an appraising eye cocked on a U. S. which has always to worry about the southern approaches to the Panama Canal.

Rest, Digitalis Treat Heart Inflammation

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—What is the cause of myocarditis and how does it affect a person?

A—Myocarditis, inflammation of the heart muscle, may be caused by any acute infectious disease—especially such diseases as rheumatic fever, diphtheria, typhus, pneumonia and more rarely influenza and influenza-like diseases. The cause is sometimes obscured by the fact that several weeks may elapse between the infection and the onset of the myocarditis.

Myocarditis may be acute or chronic. It causes enlargement of the heart, shortness of breath on exertion, easy fatigability and characteristic changes in the electrocardiogram. The chief remedial measures are limitation of activity and digitalis.

Q—My 10-year-old daughter, has had pimples and blackheads on her face for two years. The doctors have not been able to help her. What causes these blemishes and what can be done for them?

A—This is no easy problem. Both blackheads and pimples or acne are associated with overactivity of the oil glands of the skin. They are usually worse during adolescence.

The following measures may be helpful. Wash the face gently three or four times a day with a plain, white soap or one that contains hexachlorophene. This will remove the excess oil and bacteria. Avoid cold cream and other cosmetics with a greasy base. Avoid squeezing the pimples or blackheads because this tends to spread any infection from contaminated fingers.

Drastically cut the intake of chocolate, nuts, fats and iodized salt. Your doctor can remove the blackheads under astringent conditions after first loosening them with hot applications but, unfortunately they are likely to come back again in the same location.

Q—Is there any way a woman can take her own Pap smear? If so, where should she send it to have it examined?

A—Although it is theoretically possible for a woman to take her own Pap smear, this is highly impractical. Some gynecologists maintain laboratories in their offices and a specially trained technician to examine such smears. Others send them to clinical laboratories which are found in large cities but which make their reports only to doctors.

Q—In a recent column you said, "Artificial sweeteners have been shown to be ineffective as a means of reducing." Does this mean they do contain calories?

A—They contain no calories but there is more to reducing than eliminating calories from your beverages.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

The Washington Marksmen Fire Away

Washington News

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Buddhist leader Thich Tri Quang may be losing control of part of his antigovernment political movement.

Intercepted Hanoi directives to Red agents in South Viet Nam order that top priority be given to infiltrating Buddhist temples.

Reports are that when the Buddhists go into action, Red infiltrators step things up a little, make certain there's more violence than the Buddhist leaders intended.

There's an indication that, as in Panama at the time of the student riots, trained Red snipers may fire into both sides to get blood flowing.

In areas under Buddhist influence, young Reds use monks' robes to give more authority to their work in building up numbers of small, co-ordinated political groups under behind-the-scenes Communist control.

THIS IS NOT TO SAY there is hard evidence here that the Communists control the Buddhist movement or its leadership.

In fact, some U. S. officials who know Tri Quang assert he is neither Communist nor anti-Communist. They argue that he sees communism as the worst enemy of Buddhism. They hold that he thinks Americans mean well — though he certainly doesn't agree with all that we do.

A Vietnamese who knows Tri Quang told me recently, "I am certain he is no Communist. In the war against the French he would not leave his mother but stayed home to care for her. No man with such strong family feelings could be a Communist."

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

May 24, 1946 — The Twaalfskill Club, which had been a charter member of the Hudson River Golf Club Association, rejoined it.

Kingston High School was due to be represented by 150 students at a music competition in Hudson.

Attendance at the Firemen's Ball in the Municipal Auditorium was estimated at 1,200.

But those who know Tri Quang agree he is highly emotional and is fuzzy-headed on what he wants and on what should be done in Viet Nam.

Historically, the Communists have frequently known how to use such a man.

Take the case of Juan Bosch in the Dominican Republic. Behind and under Bosch's idealistic facade, the Communists started building strong cells. The Dominican Communists shouted so loudly for Bosch's programs and for Bosch that he saw them as no menace.

THE REDS HAVE HAD SOME SUCCESS thus far in a number of places with their Buddhist-infiltration program.

Communist infiltration of the Buddhists in Laos proved a major help in the early Communist take-over of half that country.

Peking-trained "Buddhists" now move out from the handful of government-run "temples" in Red China to Buddhist assemblies in Asia.

They infiltrate Thai and Burmese priesthoods.

In these places they argue that Guatama Buddha didn't really mean for Buddhists to be passive. They produce "evidence" that he wanted Buddhists to fight in a "good cause." They argue that wars to overthrow the governments of South Viet Nam, Laos and Thailand are wars that Guatama Buddha would approve. Killing in wars such as these, say the Red "priests," doesn't conflict with Buddha's ban on taking life.

U. S. and Vietnamese intelligence agencies are now bending every effort to penetrate the Buddhist temples and learn which young priests are string-pulling Communists and which are genuine Buddhists. The future of South Viet Nam may depend on their success or failure.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

The Kingston Stampprotectors

had a Stamp-o-rama at the YWCA Sunday, May 15, at which dealers could show their wares. I met Marion Neefus and her mother from Hudson, of the Wendover Neefus Co., which dates back to 1894. She put out the 50th edition of Stamps of United States, a copy of which I have. From the Lloyd's Stamp and Coin Shop of Newburgh, I have a cachet cover showing Washington's Headquarters in Newburgh, which was put out by the Orange County Stamp Club. Right here in the Town of Esopus, we had a 150th Anniversary 1811-1961 cachet cover and just recently I received some, all dated May 13, 1961.

This was long before I knew the word or meaning of cachet envelopes. It so happens these Town of Esopus envelopes are decorated with a fine line drawing of the Mary Powell, the lighthouse, an apple tree, and map of Esopus. They are cancelled from local places. I think I would like one from Connelly Post Office, which I think does a large hand cancel. There is an insert card telling: "This envelope is of historical significance as is the special cancellation issued by the U. S. Post Office Department. We suggest you keep it and the card of events for handy reference as to the dates of the summer's events."

I wonder how many saw the interesting window display in Reis' Liquor store at 367 Broadway. There is a small antique cash register, on which is the old, large bill, and old silver coins. Old newspapers with war time headings. There is also an old ledger of a local butcher shop, listing the meat sold to the Mary Powell, and many other items. Shown also are postal cards. The cards are in an old album, and two pages of cards are shown.

Don Griffin of Griffin Paper Co., of 74 Furnace Street who has given me old Catskill Mountain folders and cards before, sent me some new cards of the Suspension Bridge over the Delaware River between Lackawanna, Pa. and Minisink Ford, N. Y. It was built in 1848 to hold an aqueduct which carried the Delaware and Hudson Canal over the river. The canal ran from Honesdale, Pa., to Rondout (Kingston). Canal ceased operation in 1898. It has been a toll bridge for vehicular traffic since 1900 and is one of the few privately owned toll bridges still in use. All this information is on the back of a very colorful card showing the structure. No doubt the D & H Canal Society members will be interested in this card.

I acquired some old postal cards at the stamp club, Sunday, May 15, and no doubt other local card enthusiasts would have enjoyed going through those dealers' haul. One of the few I bought, was of Saugerties of the Centine Paper Mills which was sent in 1912. One of main entrance to Palisades Park, N. J. when ladies wore very long dresses. Another of Swan Pond, at Central Park, when children wore large straw hats, and pinafores, and had governesses. Boys wore sailor blouses. That was dated 1913. Another scene dated 1911 shows Grant's Tomb, with an open deck bus of that vintage. In 1908 the dresses were wide and swept the ground as seen at the Million Dollar Pier at Atlantic City. The old Waldorf-Astoria Hotel card dated 1914, was a handsome structure. Have a 1909 Statute of Liberty, with a Times Square cancellation and one of a lavender Statue of Liberty Bedlow's Island round cancel. Have also some of old typewriters on cards of the early 1900 vintage. Eventually, I'll need albums to put them in.

Claims Viet Strategy Is Not Directed by Military Heads

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The strangest thing about the Viet Nam war is that the strategy isn't being directed by military men. This may be one of the reasons why certain segments of the American people are somewhat confused, and perhaps it accounts for the variations from time to time in the public opinion polls and surveys.

One impression derived from news reports is that the military men in positions of leadership here are somewhat frustrated by the restraints being constantly imposed by reason of "policy considerations."

Enlightening Comment

The most enlightening comment on the whole situation has just come from Harold Brown, secretary of the U. S. Air Force, who was interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press" last Sunday. His reluctance to answer categorically certain types of questions was meaningful in itself. He was asked, for instance, whether, if the United States turned loose its naval and air force power against North Vietnamese military targets, this could quickly change the situation of the war in South Viet Nam. The Secretary replied: "I would like to start out by explaining why we are in Viet Nam. We are not fighting in Viet Nam to overthrow the North Vietnamese government. We are not fighting in Viet Nam to assure a permanent alliance of the South Vietnamese with ourselves, nor even to obtain permanent base rights in South Viet Nam."

"We are fighting in Viet Nam in order to assure the South Vietnamese people the possibility of a free government without being attacked, without their being attacked from outside."

"In so doing, we are using the minimum force available to attain those ends. We are to minimize our own casualties, the casualties of our allies. We are even trying to minimize the casualties of our adversaries and at the same time bring them to the conference table, which we have been unable so far to do."

Wider War Wanted

"We are not looking for a wider war. We are not looking for a bigger war. We don't want to do anything that would bear with it a grave risk of increasing the scope of the conflict with all that that would mean in the way of additional U. S. efforts and additional U. S. casualties."

"At the present decision, which is a decision of the commander-in-chief, is not to expand the tragedy and the reason, I think, is very clear. It doesn't do very much good to . . . win."

Timely Quotes

The only way to prevent window breakage is to build schools without windows.

—Lt. Robert Henzler, head of the Police Youth Squad in Pittsburgh, Pa., where school vandalism costs the city $2,000-$2,500 a month.

We have already achieved Herbert Hoover's goal of a chicken in every pot simply because we no longer can afford beef and pork.

—Statement made at "Consumer Assembly '66" held in Washington to lobby for truth-in-packaging bill.

Addresses Listed For Legislators

Congress and the State Legislature are now in session. If you wish to write to your representatives, these are the addresses:

one war and find yourself in a much bigger one."

There have been rumors that the Joint Chiefs of Staff have urged intensified bombing raids against all installations of military significance. Secretary Brown refused to discuss such reports.

The net result of the Air Force Secretary's explanation is perhaps to leave the reader puzzled. For when a government official talks in such guarded terms about the use of air power, it is quite evident that restrictions have been imposed and that the war is not being fought by military commanders but on the basis of "Policy Considerations."

There are always risks in enlarging a war, but military men answer that risks are even greater if an impression of cravenness and irresolution is conveyed. Also, the casualties in ground warfare are increased when enemy supply lines are not disrupted or its bases destroyed.

Putting Steady Pressure

So the United States is really not fighting the war with the maximum of its power but is trying to exert steady pressure on the North Vietnamese in the hope of a peace conference.

Here in Washington Senator Richard Russell, chairman of the Armed Services committee, has said publicly that the United States either should plan to win the war or pull out. There has been a debate on what is meant by "winning the war," and it has even been argued that it doesn't matter whether the military forces of the enemy are beaten as long as they are "contained" or held in check.

Sooner or later, the administration here will have to make a decision on whether it really is out to defeat the aggressor or merely means to hold the line indefinitely, while each year thousands of Americans are killed and wounded. The war could drag on for many years if it is not fought intensively.

Quick Quiz

Q—What is a unique feature of the organ in the Luray Caverns in Virginia?

A—The "Cathedral" organ produces music from the stalactites themselves, creating a stereophonic effect from the different positions of the stalactites in the area.

Q—How long do ants live?

A—Many spend the winter asleep underground. Worker ants may live as long as seven years, and queen ants as long as 15 years.

Q—Does paper, which is made out of wood fibers, shrink and swell like lumber?

A—No. Paper fibers are intertwined and point in all directions, while in wood they are more or less parallel.

Probably more books have been written about birds than any other member of the animal world. There are between 10,000 and 12,000 living species of birds, and human curiosity about them is greater than ever. It is estimated that, in North America, 250,000 persons own at least one book about birds. In Great Britain, the figure is 100,000 persons. In the latter nation, one book about birds is published every week.

Questions, Answers on Federal Tax

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—I didn't file a new W-4 withholding exemption certificate last month and I think too much is being withheld from my paycheck. Is it too late to file a new W-4?

A—No. You may still file a new withholding exemption certificate with your employers. If you are married and did not file a new W-4 before May 1, your tax is being withheld at the higher rate for single persons. You may have the correct rate applied by filing a new Form W-4. If you are single, your withholding may be correct because the new rates are higher for single persons. Also, you may not be claiming all the exemptions to which you are entitled. You should check with your employer to determine whether or not this is so.

Q—I have been asked to bring my records to your local office for an examination of my return. Suppose the agent proposes to disallow some of my deductions and I don't agree. What happens then?

A—Tell the agent that you don't agree and that you would like a conference with the District Conference. In many cases you can have a conference on the spot. In the alternative, you will be mailed a copy of the agent's report along with the letter explaining your appeal rights.

Q—I just started my own business. Can an employer use his Social Security number for business tax purposes?

A—If you just started your own business and are liable for

Report De Gaulle Opposition Ready If He Steps Down

By DAVID MASON

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle is riding firmly the seat of power, but off in the political wilderness his opposition is struggling to prepare for the day when he will step down.

There is little now to give the lie to De Gaulle's old prediction: "After me, a mess" — Apres moi, la pagaille.

Forming Ranks

Trying now to form ranks for the day when De Gaulle goes employment, excise or other business tax returns, you must obtain an employer identification number. This number must be shown on all business returns and on Schedule C of your 1040 return. You can apply for a number by filling out Form SS-4, which is available at local IRS and Social Security offices.

Your Social Security number should be shown only on your individual income tax return, self-employment tax Schedule E, and declaration of estimated tax, Form 1040ES.

Q—Is there still a tax on the acquisition of foreign stocks?

A—Yes, but some foreign securities may be exempt from the Interest Equalization Tax. Generally, the broker or agent selling you the stock will know whether it is subject to that tax.

If you are liable for the tax, you pay it with Form 3780, Interest Equalization Tax Return. Transactions for each calendar quarter are reported, and the return is required to be filed by the last day of the month following the calendar quarter.

Q—I won $100 prize in an essay in school. Who has to pay the tax on the prize—me or my parents? I'm 17 years old.

A—A prize won in an essay contest is taxable to the winner. It should be counted when you add up your income for the year. If you total $600 or more in earned income then you will have to file a tax return.

Your family is not liable for any income earned by you.

are two main groups with fuzzy-sounding names and even fuzzy support. One is led by an old political hand, Francois Mitterrand, and the other by a Kennedy-style politician, Jean Lecanuet.

Mitterrand's group is called the Democratic and Socialist Federation and Lecanuet's is labeled the Democratic Center. Considerable opposition voting polarized around the two men in the presidential election campaign late last year. Mitterrand came in second in the first round of voting and Lecanuet was a strong third. The two forced De Gaulle into a runoff round which he had no real trouble winning. But the Gaullists got a shock and they are worried that they might lose their parliamentary majority in elections to be held perhaps about a year from now.

If either Mitterrand or Lecanuet can paste together enough voter strength to blunt or knock out the Gaullist parliamentary majority, he would obviously be in line as a strong presidential contender. De Gaulle took office in January for a 7-year term but he will be 76 in November and he could step down before 1973 if he decides his mission is completed, or if his health fails.

Want to Be Ready

Mitterrand, Lecanuet and others want to be ready for any such development. It is far from sure they can keep their troops together or enlarge their ranks significantly.

An indication of Mitterrand's problem has become evident recently. He rolled up 31.71 per cent of the vote in the first presidential electoral round last December with strong Communist party support although he never fully embraced the Communists.

Early this month, Mitterrand named a shadow cabinet, British style, to wait for the day when De Gaulle bows out. The Communists didn't rate a seat on Mitterrand's "cabinet." Suddenly their love affair with Mitterrand was over.

Lecanuet, who picked up 15.57 per cent of the vote last December, is trying to spread his political base, but with no clear evidence of great success.

Says Small Rail Lines Cannot Survive Alone

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Norfolk & Western Railway executive says the smaller, independent roads—such as the Delaware & Hudson, the Erie Lackawanna and the Boston & Maine—cannot survive alone.

John P. Fishwick said Monday these roads could best meet Northeast transportation needs by combining into a single road, along with the Reading and the Jersey Central, as a subsidiary to a proposed merger between the N&W and the Chesapeake & Ohio.

He offered his views in testimony before the Interstate Commerce Commission on a petition by the Erie, the D&H and the B&M for merger now with the N&W.

Fishwick said only the merger

More Opposition

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—A South Vietnamese Buddhist monk says U.S. participation in the war in his country "can only create more opposition to the present Vietnamese government."

Thich Nhat Hanh of Hue, head of the Buddhist Student Service Association, told a Cornell University audience of 1,500 Monday that the United States "should stop the war at once."

He contended that time is on the side of the Viet Cong and that America could win the war only by destroying the Vietnamese people.

"We don't wish to be destroyed," he said.

of the N&W and the C&O and assembly of the five smaller railroads into a subsidiary company could compete successfully with the pending Pennsylvania-New York Central merger.

Women Voters League Salutes Mrs. Tannenbaum

The League of Women Voters of New Paltz held its annual meeting recently in the Fireside Room of the New Paltz Reformed Church Education Building. During the brief business meeting, the membership approved the Treasurer's report, the proposed budget, and the slate of officers.

A tribute was paid to Mrs. Harold Tannenbaum on behalf of the local League of Women Voters by Mrs. Harry Cornwell. Mrs. Tannenbaum was sighted for her many years of dedication and service both to the League and to the community. Mrs. Joseph McCarthy read a report from the Poughkeepsie League on the Annual Convention held May 2 through 6th in Denver, Colorado.

The guest speaker for the evening was Mrs. Harry B. Binder, Chairman of the League of Women Voters' Legislative Committee. Mrs. Binder explained to the members how she and her committee works to bring about legislation on those proposals which concern League position. She ended her address with a report on activity to date in the Legislature.

The new officers for the New Paltz League are: president—Mrs. John Laffan; 1st vice-president—Mrs. Alex Martin; 2nd vice-president—Mrs. Donald Roper; treasurer—Miss Norene Thorson; Elected directors were: Mrs. Gustav Silverman, Mrs. Irvin Polatsek, Mrs. John O'Connell, Mrs. Salvatore Tilaro and Mrs. Walter Rost. Members of the nominating committee: Mrs. William Hurley, chairman, Mrs. Chester Mazur, and Mrs. Gilbert Brenner.

Name a Road Contest

New Paltz Town Board has announced it is holding a contest for a new name to the road leading from Route 32 to the sanitary landfill. The contest will be for children ages eight to 15. The requirement for entering the contest will be that all entries be sealed and sent to the town clerk by Monday, June 6 and be accompanied by a statement of fifty words or less explaining why they chose the name. In case of duplication the first one received will be accepted. The judge's selection will be final.

Judges for the contest are John Schulte, chairman; Mrs. Charles Scott, Nicholas Badami, Anthony Moriello, and Abe Paradisi.

The winning prize will be a $25 savings bond. The winning name will be announced shortly after the contest.

Legion Rummage Sale

The American Legion Auxiliary of the Sullivan-Shafer Post of New Paltz has announced it is sponsoring a rummage sale June 4 at the Legion Hall on Route 32.

The building will be open on June 3 from 1 to 4 p. m. for contributions. Anyone wishing to donate articles and need to have them picked up, may call the Post home.

The Legion Ladies express their thanks for contributions of cake for their annual party at the Veteran's Hospital in Albany on May 6.

The Auxiliary also collects coupons from food products and has drop-off boxes at both New Paltz Grand Union stores.

To Create Study Group

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—Cornell University plans to create a commission to study the university's relations to the draft and military service.

Mark Barlow Jr., vice president for student affairs, said Monday that the commission, whose members have not been selected, would study the matter over the summer and make recommendations by the start of the fall term.

The Cornell campus was the scene last week of student demonstrations against the use of college facilities to administer Selective Service draft - deferment tests.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The village of Clyde, about 15 miles northwest of Auburn, is the recipient of $9,992 federal grant to train 40 pre-school children.

Fact

In ancient times lightning was regarded as the weapon of the gods. Areas struck by lightning were hedged off as sacred precincts and persons killed by lightning were not accorded the usual funeral rites but were buried on the spot where they were struck. In some of the more primitive parts of Africa today fires started by lightning are not extinguished, nor is aid given to a person struck down.

Notable Flip-Flops in Past

GOP Ranks for 1968 Appear To Be Thinning Out—Maybe

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The ranks of the would-be 1968 Republican presidential candidates look a little thinner — maybe — but a politician's second thoughts are like a rescue squad that keeps him breathing.

The Republicans have had some notable switch-arounds, like New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Barry Goldwater, and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Several Contradictions

All of them at one time or another said they wouldn't dream of wanting the Republican presidential nomination — Rockefeller and Goldwater just said it again — and then contradicted themselves.

Monday Rockefeller, saying he would seek a third term as governor this year, declared himself out of the presidential running "forever, without reservation." He had sought the nomination twice.

In 1959, when he said he would not be a candidate in 1960, he described his decision as "definite and final." As the 1960 convention drew near he said he was willing to be drafted. Nixon got the nomination.

When Rockefeller did actively go after it in 1964, Goldwater got it, only to be drowned in that year's election by President Johnson.

This month Goldwater, asked if he'd try again, said, "It would be stupid. It would be a mistake to nominate anybody who was beaten as bad as I was. I would be the first to say no."

But at the same time he said he expects the 1968 Republican convention to be about as conservative as the one which nominated him two years ago. If he changes his mind about running, it won't be the first time.

From 1960 to 1964 he kept saying he would not seek the presidential nomination, didn't want it, and simply wanted to run for the Senate. Then on Jan. 3, 1964, he declared himself a candidate and began campaigning.

Now he is saying again he just wants to run for the Senate, this time in 1968.

Nixon Hardy Perennial

In politics Nixon is a hardy perennial who has flip-flopped like the others.

Within a year after John F. Kennedy defeated him for the presidency in 1960 Nixon was saying, "I shall not be a candidate for president in 1964. I shall be a candidate for governor of California in 1962."

And he was, only to be beaten by Gov. Edmund G. Brown. Then Nixon promptly held a news conference, denounced the press for its treatment of him, and declared it was his last news conference: "You won't have Nixon to kick around."

He went even further 10 days later, saying that was his last campaign for public office. Within a few months he was holding news conferences again.

And in 1963 he was saying he would not be a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination again.

Stays in Public Eye

"That answers all questions of that type," he said. "My statement means there can be no draft."

But in 1964 he said he would accept a draft, explaining: "If the opportunity should come again, I would accept it." Goldwater got it.

Since then Nixon has kept himself in the public eye with statements, oral and written, on public affairs and running the government, avoiding talk about the 1968 nomination which he might not be anxious for if by then President Johnson is riding high.

The famous Teapot Dome oil well was in the Salt Creek oil field north of Casper, Wyo.

Rocky's Painful Conclusion

Declaration Marks End of Turbulent Saga in Politics

An AP News Analysis
By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller's declaration ruling himself out "forever" as a potential candidate for President marked the end of a turbulent saga in American political history.

It was Rockefeller's painfully reached conclusion that, despite his most ardent ambitions, he no longer stood a realistic chance of occupying the White House.

Was Boyhood Dream

From his early boyhood, according to Rockefeller biographers, it was the Republican governor's dream that one day a Rockefeller should ascend to the presidency.

He seemed to be well on his way, when he defeated fellow millionaire Averell Harriman and captured the governorship of the nation's most prestigious state in 1958.

He made overtures for the nomination in 1960 but backed off when it appeared Richard M. Nixon had the nomination wrapped up. He came later to regard his withdrawal as a fatal political error, especially after John F. Kennedy conceded that Rockefeller might have defeated him that year, if he had been the nominee.

He made an all-out effort to win the nomination four years later, in 1964, but veteran political observers agreed the "bloom was off the peach."

He had become embroiled in a hassle over raising taxes in New York State and — much more damaging — he had been divorced by his wife of 31 years and had married a divorced mother of five children.

Rockefeller offered himself in 1964 as the standard bearer of the moderate wing of the Republican party, but fellow moderates did not rush to his support and he went down to defeat at the hands of conservative forces headed by Barry M. Goldwater.

Rockefeller was embittered by his rejection in 1964, and he blamed such GOP "moderates" as Pennsylvania's Gov. William W. Scranton and Michigan's Gov. George Romney for failing to avert the calamity.

But Rockefeller decided in the days preceding Monday night's speech in Garden City that he had had his day in the sun — and the Republican torch now must pass to hands relatively unscarred by political strife.

In his Garden City speech, disavowing all personal hopes of running for president, Rockefeller accomplished these objectives:

— He placated the "moderate" wing of the GOP, which had feared that he still nursed presidential ambitions and thus might create a party cleavage

Never Love Boss, Countess Pleads

LONDON (AP) — "Most businessmen need a perfect secretary more than a perfect wife," said the 35-year-old Countess of Dartmouth.

Addressing a group of secretarial students her ladyship went on: "But don't fall in love with the boss. Falling in love with the boss is the cardinal sin in the office."

"A girl must be a friend to her boss, his public relations officer, his colleague and nurse if necessary — but she should never love him."

"Nothing is more irritating or boring to the boss's friends and colleagues than an adoring and possessive secretary."

"We once had a doctor whose secretary was so in love with him that she hated the patients taking up his time."

"She married the man in the end — but he lost most of his practice."

The countess was followed by Robert Maxwell, 43, a publisher and member of the House of Commons, who told the secretaries laughingly: "I'm all in favor of male secretaries. They stay longer."

that would play into the hands of Republican conservatives.

— He solidified the New York GOP by placing himself four-square behind the ambitions of U.S. Sen. Jacob K. Javits to become the first Jew to win a Republican vice-presidential nomination.

— He removed a campaign argument of Democrats that Rockefeller really is not interested in the fortunes of New York State but merely wished to use the governorship as a springboard for the presidency. The price he had to pay in ambition was high.

Intimates of the governor say he did so with deep personal sorrow.

DANCING HORSE AT RODEO — Special Western entertainment will be featured at the first annual Benedictine Hospital Rodeo to be held at Dietz Stadium Saturday and Sunday.

Joe Phillips, star of television and rodeo shows throughout the nation, will be appearing with his dancing horse, Golden Mist. Phillips features dances which include the Spanish High Trot, the waltz, the cake walk, the goose step, the Hula Hula, the twist, and the cabriolet plus an outstanding routine of tricks.

Joe Phillips' routine of gun juggling has earned him a reputation of being the "Best in the West". He has appeared with Ed Sullivan, Steve Allen, Garry Moore and many others. Performers will be at the Dietz stadium on Saturday at 7:30 p. m. and on Sunday at 2 p. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Financing Approved

WASHINGTON (AP)—National Fuel Gas Co. of New York State has the go-ahead, along with three subsidiaries, for a $12 million financing arrangement to raise money for additions to plant and underground gas storage inventories.

The Securities and Exchange Commission approved the arrangement Monday by National Fuel, Iroquois Gas Corp., Pennsylvania Gas Co. and United Natural Gas Co.

The parent company proposes to sell $12 million in promissory notes, while the subsidiaries plan to sell their notes to parent firm.

Schedule Hearing For Teeners on Larceny Charges

Peace Justice John Beaver, Town of Esopus, scheduled a preliminary hearing May 26 in the case of two Poughkeepsie teenagers arrested early today on a charge of attempted first degree grand larceny.

George Nelson, 19, of 103 Pine Street, and Jerry Latimer, 18, of 2 North Bridge Street, both of Poughkeepsie, were committed to Ulster County Jail when they were unable to post $1,000 bail each.

They were arrested in what State Police at the Highland substation said was the attempted theft of a 1966 Jeep about 1:15 this morning from the West Park Servicecenter, West Park.

Sergeant Edward Whalen, Highland, said that Howard Bauer, operator of the service station said that he observed two young men attempting to steal the vehicle and hollered at them. Bauer told the Freeman that the young men fled when he fired a warning shot with a shotgun. Troopers Harry Foster and Brian O'Connor, who had been notified of the incident, arrested the youths on Route 9W, a short distance from the service station.

Probe Burglary

A burglary at the home of Joseph Durham, River Road, Tilton, over the weekend is being investigated by the sheriff's office. Durham on Monday reported his home had been entered some time between Friday and Sunday and over $1,900 had been taken. The burglary is being investigated by Ulster County Investigator Thomas Mayone.

Skalds were ancient Scandinavian poets or minstrels.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Folks:

I just found another way to save on our grocery budgets. This idea is for anyone who loves a hot chocolate drink for breakfast.

And for the kiddies who dunk doughnuts and toast in it. . . Have you ever tried concocting a homemade mix to suit your own particular taste?

I did. I put one cup of sugar, one envelope of instant non-fat dry milk powder and one-third cup of powdered cocoa in a mixing bowl and stirred until it was thoroughly mixed. I put this in a jar and capped the lid tightly.

When I want a cup of hot cocoa, I just put a couple of teaspoonfuls of the mixture in my cup, pour a bit of boiling water over it, stir with a spoon and finish the cup with more hot water.

I found it was even better to make the mixture in a blender. Put in the sugar, cocoa and dry milk, blend on high speed 10 seconds or so and cut motor off. Shake the blender and turn the motor on a few more times, a couple of seconds at a time. Completely pulverizes the sugar and mixes the ingredients. If you like bitter chocolate, use more dry cocoa.

And that's all there is to it.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I have found that babies and plastic pants do not always agree—especially in warm weather.

I cut a piece of plastic (not Pliofilm) the size of the folded diaper, inserted it under the outside layer of the diaper, and pinned the diaper on as usual.

Result: No plastic touching baby's tender skin and no sappy laps.

June Freshhour

Dear Heloise:

Here's a use for an empty tape holder with a cutting edge:

I bought a spool of adhesive tape and put it into the empty tape dispenser and find it easy to tear off a piece of tape for instant use when needed.

Emma L. Thomas

Dear Heloise:

When berry season rolls around, if you are annoyed with all the little specks of various kinds which you cannot seem to get separated from the berries (especially raspberries) . . . and do not have all of the conveniences such as a colander and spray faucet, here's an idea:

Just put the berries into a bucket of water and gently stir them around.

After pouring off the water, fill it up again and then just drop a clean, old terry towel down through the berries. (Most of the berries will be floating in the water).

When you lift up the towel, the loops will have caught all of the specks as you pull it out.

Rinse the towel and repeat if necessary.

Alma J. Grover

Imagine anything so simple? It works like a charm on blackberries, too.

How can we ever thank you?

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When making sandwiches to take on a picnic, write the kind of sandwich on a small piece of paper, and slip it (writing up) in the sandwich bag.

You can choose, at a glance, the kind of sandwich you want.

Essie V.

Dear Heloise:

This is the way I clean my barbecue grill:

I run hot water in the sink or a container large enough to hold the grill. I place the grill in the container, sprinkle dishwasher compound on it, and forget it for a while.

Later on, the hard cooked-on grease and barbecue sauces will come off very easily with a brush, and the grill is clean and shiny for the next cook out.

Bidding Skill Brings Reward

By JACOBY & SON

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Good bidding looks easy when you can see both partner's hands. It is much harder in practice, if you don't think so just get hold of the two best players you know; give one the North and the other the South hand and see if they can find their way to the cinch five diamond contract.

They may stop short of game. They may try three no-trump in spite of the lack of a spade stopper but they are most likely to wind up at five clubs which won't make. Playing at diamonds there is an extra trick because after South ruffs the third spade he still has five tricks in the side suit.

The bidding in the box shows the workmanlike sequence used by Jack Blair and Byron Greenberg of Tulsa.

Jack's opening club bid was normal as was Byron's bid of two clubs after West's spade overcall. Jack's two diamond bid was justified by his three aces, 17 high card points and general good distribution.

Byron felt that his club raise was sound and decided that it was up to him to show that he held diamonds as well as clubs. With a weaker hand Byron would merely have gone to three clubs.

Jack felt that his hand was worth another bid. After all,

Byron had not signed off at three clubs. His three heart bid still left three no-trump available in case Byron could stop spades and then Byron made the key bid of the hand. He visualized the possibility that Jack would hold five clubs and four diamonds and that diamonds would play one trick better than clubs. Hence Byron went to four diamonds whereupon Jack proceeded to the nice diamond game.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—In jittery

days the public joins business in watching more closely the signs that have gained a reputation for fore-telling good days or bad ahead. And right now some are pointing to caution. But most still seem to say that good times could last for quite a spell.

One of the economic tea leaves that is being studied at the moment is the highly important of new orders for durable goods.

Bad, Good News

The bad news is that they turned down in April after months of steady advances. The good news is that, since shipments also dropped in April, the backlog of unfilled orders rose—meaning that there's plenty of activity assured for most durable goods makers for weeks and even months ahead.

Further reassurance to optimists can be found in last year's performance of the durable good orders as a direction-pointer. In 1965 orders turned down on three occasions, only to recover quickly and climb to new highs.

And a pause now in new orders might be welcomed by government economists because it could relieve pressure for higher prices of some industrial materials that have been getting in tighter supply. It was the long rise in new orders and backlogs that got much of the blame for price hikes in recent months in metals and other factory supplies.

Will Watch New Orders

How new orders for durables held up in May will be watched closely. In April they dropped to a seasonally adjusted $23.9 billion from the record $24.6 billion in March. But durable shipments declined also, so that the order backlog rose by $1.1 billion to $67.7 billion at the end of April. Even if new orders continue sluggish, the backlog means busy days ahead for many factories.

April was the 28th consecutive month that new durable goods orders topped shipments. And manufacturers have been increasing their shipments. So far this year average monthly shipments have been $2 billion higher than in the like period of 1965. But new orders grew so fast in the first three months of this year that the spread between orders and shipments is the biggest since the middle of

Unfilled orders are now equal to about 3 1/4 months' shipments. A year ago it was three months. High as is the total of orders in backlog—$67.7 billion—in backlog still has a long way to go to reach the $78.8 billion of November 1952, when the Korean War buildup was at its peak. At that time the backlog equalled seven months' shipments from 1952's smaller factories.

Bank Official Attends League Annual Conclave

H. Van Wyck Darrow, executive vice president of the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston, attended the 1966 management conference of the Savings Association League of New York State, held last week in the Americana Hotel, New York.

The conference program included addresses by Congressmen Abraham J. Multer and Otis G. Pike; Assemblyman Francis P. McCloskey; Harry S. Schwartz, director of research and home finance, Federal Home Loan Bank Board; C. Elwood Knapp, president, Friendship Federal Savings and Loan Association, Pittsburgh; Dr. Leo Grebler, professor of real estate and urban land economics at the University of California at Los Angeles, and Dr. Heinz B. Biedorf, assistant professor of household economics and management extension, Cornell University.

The savings association executives devoted an entire day to roundtable discussions of current problems, including savings promotion, investments, cost controls, competition, data processing, mergers, the proposed state insurance fund, advertising and public relations, and personnel.

The Savings Association League of New York State is the only statewide organization of its kind representing the savings association of the state. The league provides and acquaints the public with savings association services and accomplishments. The league cooperates closely with state and federal banking agencies. Total assets of the 223 savings associations in New York State exceed $8 billion.

Physician Is Ordered To Pay Tax Fines

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — An osteopathic physician who pleaded no contest to charges he evaded $10,792 in federal income taxes has been ordered to pay fines totaling $2,500.

Dr. Edmund C. Barnes, 62, of Silver Creek, was sentenced Monday in U. S. District Court by Judge Harold P. Burke.

The U. S. Internal Revenue Service said Barnes mis-stated his income for the period 1956 through 1959. The government said he earned $90,601, on which taxes of $24,590 were owed, but reported income of $57,879, with $13,798 due in taxes.

Barnes is a past president of the Western New York Osteopathic Association.

Omar Claims No Sour-Grape View On Oscar Reaction

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

PARIS (AP) — "How could they do that — give the Oscar to 'The Sound of Music'?" Omar Sharif wanted to know.

The Egyptian actor played the title role in "Doctor Zhivago," which lost the Academy Award race to the sunny musical. But he claimed there was no sour-grape attitude in his reaction.

"The Oscar should have gone to 'Doctor Zhivago' or 'The Spy Who Came In From the Cold' or any other film that had artistic merit," he said. "But not to a purely popular concoction."

Surprisingly, Sharif concurred with the Academy's failure to nominate him as best actor, although "Doctor Zhivago" received a flock of other nominations.

"It would have been a gross injustice because the role was too passive," he said.

Sharif, who was nominated as best supporting actor for "Lawrence Of Arabia," doesn't fret about such things as awards. He is too busy pursuing his career as one of the most popular, if lowest paid, stars of the international film market.

Lowest paid? "That's right," he said. "I'm still operating under the contract I signed for 'Lawrence Of Arabia.' Yes, I could no doubt hold out for better terms. But I signed a contract, and that is that. I will live by it."

Snake Cuts Current

JACKSONVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Electrical power was cut momentarily at Little Rock Air Force Base recently when a snake shorted out equipment.

He mentioned that he is earning $30,000 for his current film, "The Night Of the Generals," in which he plays an anti-Nazi officer. He probably could demand 10 times that amount for such a prestigious film as a free lancer.

"I made $14,000 for 18 weeks' work in 'Genghis Khan,'" he said with a trace of bitterness. "I don't mind making films like 'Night Of the Generals' and 'Doctor Zhivago' for little money. But my career cannot afford more than two 'Genghis Khans.'"

Lest you shed any tears for Omar the Deal Maker, it should be added that he lives in a luxury apartment on the Avenue Foch, supports his estranged wife at the Hotel George V, and now is racing his own horses at French race tracks. These endeavors are aided by the fact that he has paid no income tax in his home country, Egypt.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

City Leaders Slate Luncheon, Parade Plans for Future

Kingston Neighborhood Association of Girl Scout Adults held its last formal meeting of the scout year at St. Joseph's School Thursday.

Final finance forms were distributed to the leaders with the request that they turn in their reports as soon as possible after summer season.

Mrs. John Murdoch reported on arrangements for the leaders luncheon to be held this year June 9. Mrs. Laurence Boucher will be in charge of reservations. Leaders will be notified by mail of reservations deadline, menu and other pertinent information.

Mrs. John Dittus reported to the group on the recent leaders overnight camp-out at Camp Wendy. Where they received training from Mrs. Paul Ferlman, Mrs. David Ennis and a group of Senior Girl Scouts from Oteora Neighborhood. Among the many things they enjoyed were learning how to make a Hunters Stew, camp capers, lashing and singing around the campfire.

The Memorial Day Parade was discussed and all were advised that permission slips were required for all scouts who will be taking part in the parade. Leaders will be notified of line up arrangements as soon as they are available.

Mrs. H. Brown spoke of the Open House to be held at Camp Edith Macy, Girl Scout Adults training camp near Pleasantville. There will be a group visiting from Kingston Neighborhood and other sections of the council.

Refreshments were served by Leaders and troop committee members of St. Joseph's School Troops.

The Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts is a participating member agency of the Ulster County Community Chest.

Make Camp Trip

Saturday, 335 Brownie and Junior Girl Scouts of the Kingston Neighborhood had their annual bus trip to Camp Wendy. They were accompanied by their leaders, assistant leaders and troop committee members and mothers.

Each troop spent most of the time at camp on individual troop projects in outdoor program. Some had bag lunches, others preferred cook-outs and all hiked around the campsite.

At 3 p. m. the entire group assembled near the dining hall for a closing ceremony which included the singing of the National Anthem, the popular scout song, the Growing Up Tree, the recitation of the Brownie Promise and the Girl Scout Promise, the singing of Taps. Closing program was led by scouts of Junior Troop 39.

Chairman of the days program was Mrs. Kenneth Dittus, leader of Brownie Troop 59, assisted by Mrs. H. Hoffman of Junior Troop 35 and Mrs. Leo Notari of Junior Troop 39.

Katrine Brownies Tour

Brownie Girl Scout Troop 12, of Lake Katrine spent a busy and interesting day in keeping with the Be a Discoverer theme of the Brownie program.

The day started with luncheon and group singing, before the start of a tour of three points of interest in the community. First stop was a visit to the Kingston Knitting Mills where the scouts were taken on a tour of the plant and saw many operations involved in sweater making, from the winding of the yarn on the machine spools, to the shipping of the finished sweater.

The troop then proceeded to the New York Telephone Company building where they were able to observe the telephone operators at work and learn about communications.

Last stop for the afternoon was the new Town of Ulster Library where the Troop members presented the Librarian, Mrs. Walter Burger, with copies of the Brownie and Junior Girl Scouts Handbooks for the library use. Mrs. Burger took the scouts on a tour of the library and explained the various sections of books and invited the girls and their families to visit the library often.

In addition to the Leader Mrs. Frank Mongillo; Mrs. Robert Piper and Mrs. James Felton and Mrs. M. Newton Harmon accompanied the girls on the tour.

Graduation Speaker For UCCC Is Named

DR. GLENN A. OLDS

Dr. Glenn A. Olds, Ex-cutive Dean for International Studies and World Affairs of the State University of New York, will be the speaker for the Sunday, June 5, graduation of Ulster County Community College, Dr. Dale B. Lake, College President, said today.

The commencement ceremonies will be at Kingston High School at 2:30 p. m.

Dr. Olds, who has earned a reputation as a maker of new paths in American education, began his present job August 1, 1965, after serving eight years as President of Springfield College, Springfield, Mass., where he revitalized the College's international program.

As Executive Dean, his task is to develop international studies for the 107,000 students on the 58 diverse campuses that comprise one of the world's largest and finest state universities. He also develops and supervises programs throughout the globe relating the resources of the State University to the needs of the world, while bringing into the University the best to be offered by other nations and cultures.

Born in 1921, he had a Catholic father and Mormon mother. With a Quaker upbringing and Protestant practice, he was reared on an Oregon farm and schooled in a sawmill and logging camp.

His formal education has taken him from Willamette University, an Oregon College, where he received his A. B. degree (magna cum laude), to the midwest, with a B. D. degree from Garrett Seminary (with highest distinction), and an M. A. degree from Northwestern University, to a Ph. D. in philosophy from Yale University.

Dr. Olds has served on the faculty of a small midwestern college (DePauw University), a large midwestern university (Northwestern), a theological seminary (Garrett), a Rocky Mountain metropolitan university (University of Denver), an ivy league eastern school (Yale), and in that unique institution which blends public and private, liberal and professional, ivy and western—Cornell University.

Possessing a deep conviction that thought must be welded to action, Dr. Olds has managed, amidst a career essentially academic, to participate in a wide range of action programs, just as he managed to attain his education while supporting himself financially.

His international experiences date to the early 1940's when he participated in two international seminars in Canada. Since that time he has had a wide range of international experience.

Dr. Olds was special assistant to Sergeant Shriver in development of President Johnson's "War on Poverty" program. He was one of the principal architects of the private sector of that program — "Volunteers in Service to America."

MOTHER DAUGHTER FETE — Virginia Winn, third from left, of Delmar, provides a musical evening. He Keeps Me Smiling, at the Grace Community Church Sunday school mother and daughter banquet Friday night at the church. Assisting with the arrangements are the Mmes. Ellsworth Johnson, Walter Hopkins, Chris Geisler, Fred Brinkman, Robert Miller and Parker Ballantine. One hundred mothers and daughters attended the event.

PLANNING SCHOOL DANCE—Members of the ninth grade at J. Watson Bailey School, this city, are preparing for their graduation dance. It will be held June 4th in the school from 7:30 p. m. to 11. In charge of publicity for the gala

Welcome Wagon Officers for '66-'67 Are Announced

Mrs. Richard Van Dyne was elected president of the Welcome Wagon Club of Kingston for 1966-1967 at the club's business meeting.

Other new officers elected include, first vice president, Mrs. Denis McLane; second vice president, Mrs. Richard Rustum; secretary, Mrs. John McMichael, and treasurer, Mrs. Robert Angel.

Mrs. Walter Houle, retiring president read a thankyou note from the director of the Kingston Children's Home, Lawrence Siewers, on behalf of the home. The club recently donated $50 to the home which was the proceeds from a spring bake sale. The first fall meeting for 1966 will be September 20 in the YWCA basement room. There will be a dinner and installation of officers. Installation will be conducted by Mrs. Charles Selzo and Mrs. Richard Uhler, Kingston Area Welcome Wagon Hostesses.

Mrs. Richard VanDyne, retiring first vice president announced that the social activity for June will be a picnic, June 1 at Forsyth Park from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m. Each member is asked to bring their own main meal and something to put on the community table.

Mrs. Donald Epperson, retiring service chairman, submitted a report of the years activities. Community organizations in which Welcome Wagon Club Members volunteered services were Ulster County Health Association (mobile unit), Ulster County Tuberculosis Association, Kingston City Library, Kingston Children's Home and Ulster County Infirmary.

Summer School Begins June 14

Ulster County Community College will start its summer sessions June 14. Registration will be June 13.

Dr. Dale B. Lake, College President, said summer school offers a distinct opportunity for college students to accelerate or improve their present college programs and for other adults who wish to enroll for educational enrichment.

The summer offerings carry full college credit and adhere to the same standards as fall and spring courses.

Admission to the college is open to high school graduates and to holders of the New York State equivalency diploma. Adults who lack this preparation but who evidence a background and maturity which would indicate they could benefit from college-level study may be admitted through special arrangement with the admissions office.

Registration for the summer day session will be June 13 from 9:30 a. m. to noon. Classes will meet from June 14 to July 19.

Registration for the summer evening session will be June 13 from 9 a. m. to noon and 7 to 9 p. m. Classes will run from June 14 to August 9.

Students from other colleges who wish to enroll for summer courses at UCCC for credit toward their own programs of study are advised to secure advance approval from their primary college to insure that credits will be transferable.

Students will be permitted to carry a maximum of six semester hours of credit at any one time during the summer sessions.

Because of the acceleration of summer courses, absence from classes may seriously jeopardize the student's class standing. The student is responsible for all class material covered during his absence. Missed tests may be made up only with the instructor's permission.

Courses that will be offered in the day session include Principles of Accounting I, Art Workshop I, Creative Design-3 Dimensional Design, Mathematics for Business and Industry, Personnel Administration, Office Machines.

Inorganic Chemistry I, Inorganic Chemistry II (will meet July 25 to August 26 after Inorganic Chemistry I), Economics I, Freshman Composition II, American Literature II, Western World Literature, History of the Far East, College Mathematics I, and Developmental Psychology.

Courses that will be offered in the evening session include Principles of Accounting, Business Principles and Practices, Economics II, Freshman Composition II, History of Civilization I, Elementary Analysis of Functions, Social Psychology, Beginning Typewriting, Intermediate Typewriting, Advanced Typewriting, The Family and Elementary Spanish I.

Duchanek Donates Work to Hudson Valley Philharmonic

Mrs. Jesse Effron, chairman of the Benefit Art Auction for the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society, reported that a work by the well-known sculptor, Ludvik Duchanek, was donated by the artist to the auction committee. The auction will take place on June 4 at the Bob Smith Auction Hall, Pleasant Valley.

Mr. Duchanek recently had a one-man show entitled "The Great Society" at the Graham Gallery, New York City. The sculptor uses hammered sheet bronze, nickel silver and copper to create caricatures of contemporary personalities.

Among the artists who are giving works to help support the orchestra are, also: Ralph Della Volpe, artist in residence at Bennett College, and Lewis Rubenstein, member of the Vassar College faculty. Mrs. Effron expects to have some 30 to 40 local artists represented. Original prints by prominent artists will also be auctioned.

The works of art will be on exhibition for prospective bidders on Friday, June 3rd from 3 to 9 p. m. and on Saturday from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m.

Further information can be had by phoning Mrs. Effron at the Three Arts Gallery, Raymond Avenue, Poughkeepsie.

MJM FESTIVAL OPENS THURSDAY — Cast in the leading roles for the musical comedy "Peace Pipes and Petticoats," which will be presented by the Myron J. Michael School students in the Kingston High School auditorium Thursday and Friday evenings. The play directed by Barbara Withall and Dennis J. Kennedy, is part of the annual MJM Spring Festival. Standing (l-r) Mike Andrews, Steve Temple, Monte Rios, Chuck Filocco, Kathy Romano, Mary Fede and Nancy Rymer. Seated (l-r) Neil Kreppel, Chris Withall, Ed Michaels, Ruth Lawrence and Pat Hill. Music, Dance and Drama Will Be Features Of Junior High School Spring Festival

On Thursday, May 26 and Friday, May 27, the Myron J. Michael Junior High School will present the annual MJM Spring Festival at the Kingston High School auditorium. The program of music, dance and drama will commence at 7:30 p. m. and tickets will be available at the door.

The MJM orchestra, under the direction of Mark Baczynski, will open the program with several selections including Mozart's "Menuet," "Sonata No. 81," Corelli's "Alla Turca," and "Nocturne Concerto," Grieg. Soloists will be Pamela Benitez, violin; and Charlene Herdman, piano. The orchestra will also play "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning" by Richard Rodgers.

Nancy Rymer, a piano student of Theodore Riccoboni, will play Beethoven's "Sonata Pathétique, Opus 13," first movement.

The MJM Chorus, directed by Barbara Withall, will sing "This Is My Country," "Dona Nobis Pacem," "Little David, Play on Your Harp," and "Moon River." "One World," will feature a sextet including Susan Doyle, Mary Fede, Diana McDonald, Michael Andrews, Brian Slater and Bernard Wells. The choral segment will conclude with the rousing "Country Style." Accompanists will be Nancy Rymer and Richard Clark.

"Folk Dances of the World," a presentation by Beverly Batten and the girls' physical education classes, will demonstrate the Scottish Highland Fling, the Greek Hasapiko, Mexican Hat Dance, Scandinavian Polka and the Tinkling, a pole-dance from the Philippines. Dance narrators include Helene Marz, Linda Williams, Allen Hoey, Debbie Koskie and Donna Richards. Both dancers and narrators will be in costume.

The MJM band under the baton of Marlin E. Morrette, will play "Festival of Youth," "Four Winds Overture," "Sabo March," "Lord, Thou of My Heart," and "Concord March." Bach's "Polonaise" will feature a flute solo by Jackie Steltz. Other band numbers will include "There's Something About a Soldier," "Legend," and Military Escort March. Student conductor will be Donald Fisher.

The MJM Dramatics Club and Chorus will present "Peace Pipes and Petticoats," an original musical comedy directed by Dennis J. Kennedy and Barbara Withall. Set in the Wisconsin territory during the Civil War period, the play concerns a tomboy (Kathy Romano) who prevents an Indian uprising. Her frontier family includes Chuck Filocco and Mary Fede as her parents.

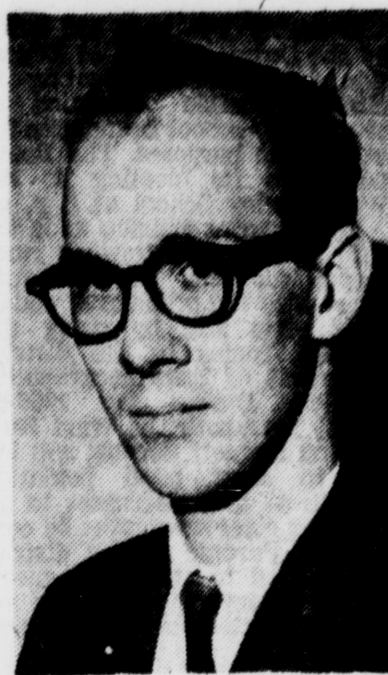

Neil Kreppel and Ed Michaels will be cast as her brothers and Chris Withall, Ruth Lawrence and Annette Romano as her sisters. An elegant cousin from Boston will be portrayed by Nancy Rymer and Mike Andrews is featured as the leader of the local Indians.

Also prominent in the cast are Pat Hill and Monte Rios as Irish-immigrant servants, Steve Temple as a traveling circuit rider, and Richard Heppner, Bob Whitaker, and Bob Schwenk as three conspiring settlers. Costumes have been rented for all leads as well as for the chorus of 52 Peace Pipe Boys and Petticoat Girls. Margaret Riehl is in charge of the costumes and make-up. The colorful sets have been designed and built by Kathryn Gill and Irene Tsontarides.

Songs for the production include such appropriate numbers as "I'm An Indian, Too," and "Pass That Peace Pipe." Other familiar tunes are "Getting to Know You," "Whistle a Happy Tune," and the lyrical "They Call the Wind Maria." The ensemble "Look Who's Dancing" and the quartet "Elegance" promise to be highlights among the show's 13 numbers.

Tickets for the MJM Spring Festival are nominal in price and may be obtained at the door.

GLEN MYER

Glen Myer, a 1965 graduate of Plattsburgh State University College, and a junior high school science teacher in the Plattsburgh Public School District, has been awarded $3,500 graduate research assistantship to the State University Graduate Center at Albany.

Myer who resides at 20 South Prospect Avenue in Plattsburgh, will work toward a master's degree in science in earth and atmospheric sciences at the Albany university, starting in September.

A 1959 graduate of Kingston High School, Myer received a B.S. degree from the Plattsburgh college where he specialized in physics. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Myer of Saugerties, N. Y.

In April of this year, Myer presented a paper entitled, "A Ground Magnetic Study of the Plattsburgh, New York Gravity Anomaly," at the annual meeting of the New York State Geological Association at Niagara Falls. The paper was the result of an independent study project conducted by him and Frederick Tallman, also a 1965 alumnus of the Plattsburgh college.

This summer Myer will participate in a research program on Lake George with Dr. Jon Scott, associate professor of earth and atmospheric sciences at Albany and Ronald Stewart, assistant professor of meteorology at Plattsburgh. The research is concerned with the transport of energy and matter in the waters of the Lake George-Lake Champlain Basin.

During the present academic year Myer conducted the weekly Friday night planetarium shows at Hudson Hall.

SUCCESS OF DANCE DEPENDS ON PLANNING — PREPARE FOR PROSPECTIVE CRASHERS

Dear Mrs. Post: I am giving a large dance for some of my high school friends. I can't have every one in the school, of course, but I know the word will get around and I'm afraid there may be quite a few crashers. How should I handle this? — Jeanette F.

Dear Jeanette: Frequently some of the guests who have accepted can't make it at the last minute, and if you have a few spaces and you know and like the crashers, ask them in. It will make for a pleasant time at school later. But if you don't like, or don't know them, or if they are tight or not properly dressed, it's up to you, with the backing of the chaperones, to tell them that you are very sorry, you just can't squeeze one more person in. At a large party your parents should have an other couple to help out if things get out of hand, or you may even hire an off-duty policeman to help park cars, and be there to lend a little authority if you need it.

Donors May Dislike Cards Displayed With Gifts

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it, or is it not correct to display the cards of the donors with the wedding gifts? — Mrs. F. G.

Dear Mrs. G.: It is not really wrong to display the cards if you wish, and visitors may enjoy seeing what came from rich Uncle Tom, or what Aunt Sadie in Japan sent. I personally, however, feel it is a personal matter between the bride and the donor. I don't like the fact that if the presents are labeled with a name, guests are likely to compare the price of what Mrs. Jones gave to the amount spent by Mrs. Smith, etc.

A Widower's Wedding Ring

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to know if a widower continues to wear his wedding ring after the death of his wife. If so, does he remove it when he starts dating another woman? — George K.

Dear George: A widower, if he was happily married, usually wishes to continue to wear his wedding ring. There is no need for him to do so after he starts dating another woman. It is entirely up to him.

The clothes of the bride and groom as well as those of their attendants are described in the booklet entitled, "Clothes of the Bride Party." If you would like a copy, send ten cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper. (A Bell-McClure Syndicate Feature)

Office Machines Course Will Be Offered By UCCC

With offices becoming more and more mechanized, Ulster County Community College is offering a course this summer to meet the need.

Entitled "Office Machines," it will be 8 to 9:30 a. m. at the College Monday through Friday. The instructor will be Ronald Koster, of the Business Division.

Mr. Koster said the trend today is to use more and more machines in offices.

"Offices are going mechanized," he said, "and with that there is a big need to train people working in the offices to use the machines."

The summer course will cover a variety of office machines, including ten-key adding machine, full-keyboard adding machine, key-driven calculator, rotary calculator, printing calculator, spirit and fluid process duplicating machines and miscellaneous office machines. In addition, the course will deal with office procedures.

When the college moves to its permanent campus at Stone Ridge, plans are to enlarge courses dealing with office equipment to include data processing and key punch instruction.

Registration for the summer day session will be June 13 from 9 a. m. to noon, and registration for the evening session will be the same day from 9 a. m. to noon and 7 to 9 p. m.

The day session will run from June 14 through July 19, while the evening session will run from June 14 to August 9.

Tonight's Meeting Of Demo Women Features Dr. Gorman

A meeting of the Ulster County Democratic Women's Club will be held tonight at the Governor Clinton Hotel at 8 p. m. Guest speaker will be Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, chairman of the Plattsburgh Democratic Committee.

On Wednesday, the Club will present a film "The Singing Nun" with shows at 8 and 9 p. m. Tickets are available from members of the club.

Licensed Practical Nurse Scholarships Available in Ulster

Ulster County residents who wish to obtain a Licensed Practical Nurses degree are eligible for six scholarships that provide assistance in gaining acceptance into a school of nursing, it was announced today.

Mrs. Helen Kandel, of Yonkers, a Fellow of the American College of Nursing Home Administrators and chairman of the Association Scholarship Committee, said that the Committee is now accepting applications for the scholarships, each of which provides a stipend of $100. While there is no age limit on applicants, they must be high school graduates and be accepted in a school in the six counties covered by the association. These are Westchester, Rockland, Dutchess, Orange, Putnam and Ulster.

If a scholarship winner has not been accepted into a nursing school, the association will assist her in doing so, Mrs. Kandel said.

In announcing the availability of the scholarships, she observed:

"We hope through this program to make a contribution towards alleviating the critical national shortage of nursing personnel. It is our hope, however, that some of our scholarship winners will choose nursing homes as a setting for their work after graduation."

Applicants should apply by letter indicating their experience, if any, education and their reason for wanting to pursue a career in the nursing profession. When letters of application are received they will be reviewed by the scholarship committee of the nursing home association. Those considered potential award winners will be given personal interviews.

Scholarships will be awarded on the basis of need, aptitude and sincerity of interest.

Letters of application should be addressed to Mrs. Helen Kandel, R.N., Directors of Nursing Services, Flatwood Nursing Home, 412 Falls Avenue, Yonkers.

Persons wishing further information on the scholarships before making application can obtain it from the Information-Aide for the committee, Mrs. Edward T. Sylcox, Sr., Sylcox Nursing Home, 235 Montgomery Avenue, Newburgh.

Rondout Valley Lions Club Gives Two Scholarships

John Thornton, member of the Rondout Valley Lion's Club presented the directors of the Rondout Valley Scholarship Fund, Inc., at its meeting last night with a check of $200 to be used towards awarding scholarships to honor graduates of the Rondout Valley Central High School. This is the second year in which the Rondout Valley Lions Club has supported the Fund.

The recipients of the Rondout Valley Scholarship Fund this year are:

Miss Sandra Coles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Coles, Stone Ridge; and Miss CeCe Derringer, daughter of Mr. Marguerite Derringer, Stone Ridge.

St. Catherine Laboure

The Rosary-Altar Society of St. Catherine Laboure Church, Lake Katrine, will hold a mother-daughter communion breakfast on June 5 after the 9 o'clock Mass. The event will be held at The Capri in Port Ewen and speaker for the occasion will be Sister Mary Cordia of Vista Maria, Cragmoor.

Reservations may be made by contacting Mrs. Robert Newkirk, chairman, or Annette Krum. Deadline for reservations is June 1.

Debate Minimum Pay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House opens debate today on a bill to raise the federal minimum wage in two steps to $1.60 and extend its coverage to 7.2 million more employees including nearly a half million farm workers.

Opponents warn inflation and unemployment could result from the bill, which would increase the present $1.25 an hour minimum to $1.60 by Feb. 1, 1968. There would be an interim increase to $1.40 next Feb. 1.

Press for Higher

tion's wealthiest men, said he had been told by the persons involved of two recent cases in which the controversial legislation would be of aid.

Gave Examples

Rockefeller gave the examples at a joint legislative committee hearing called to consider the impact of the law.

The governor, speaking before an audience that packed Chancellor's Hall, defended the new law, arguing it was not socialized medicine.

He said that it was an extension of the state's long-standing policy that "citizens of this state should receive medical care."

Citing instances of how the program would help New Yorkers, Rockefeller said he knew of one case in which a young man had to drop out of school because his mother became ill.

Collected to Pay Fee

In another case, he said, a group of teachers were trying to collect enough money to provide for an operation needed by another teacher.

The Republican governor was first of a list of more than 60 persons who had expressed a desire to present their views on the controversial legislation.

Sen. Norman P. Lent, R-East Rockaway, chairman of the newly created Joint Legislative Committee on Health and Medicare conducted the session. He gave assurance the Legislature had not ruled out the possibility of amending the massive program approved three weeks ago.

Lent also said that the committee would conduct additional studies and hearings throughout the year and would "function... as a watchdog on this program."

Growing Controversy

The hearing was scheduled in the wake of growing public controversy over many sections in the new legislation, which is designed to provide financial aid to needy persons to pay medical expenses.

Since the law was signed three weeks ago, many of its provisions have come under attack, including:

SCOPE—The new law provides that the federal, state and local governments will pay all medical expenses incurred by eligible persons. The payments include doctor and hospital bills, the cost of drugs and other health services.

ELIGIBILITY—In addition to all persons now receiving public welfare medical assistance, the law provides full care for all persons or families whose maximum income falls below certain levels. For example, a family of four would be covered if its annual net income—after deducting taxes and payments for health insurance premiums—was less than $6,000 a year.

Other requirements for eligibility include a savings limit of no more than half the annual allowable net income and no more than $1,000 in insurance for each member of the family.

The State Social Welfare Department, the agency that will administer the program, has estimated that eight million persons—of New York State's 18 million population—will be eligible.

COST—The department has estimated the first year's cost at $332 million—an increase of $84 million over the $448 million spent on welfare-aided medical programs in the state in 1965.

Of the total amount, the federal government will contribute $217 million, the state will pay $171 million and local welfare districts—mostly at the county level—will spend $144 million.

The local expenditure represents a decrease of $53 million from the 1965 spending, but the savings will benefit New York City by $54 million and by lesser amounts a few other heavily-populated Upstate areas. A total increase in local welfare spending of about $1 million is predicted for smaller, Upstate counties.

RESPONSIBILITY—The new law eliminates completely—not just for medical purposes but for all categories of welfare—a requirement that adult children be responsible for parents' welfare expenses. Only spouses and parents of children under 21 will be held accountable for medical and other welfare costs under the new program.

FEES—The Social Welfare Department is working out a higher fee-schedule to be paid to doctors and hospitals for treating patients eligible for medical aid. Commissioner George K. Wyman says the higher fees will be required to ensure that doctors and hospitals receive adequate compensation. Present welfare-set fees are based on a two-thirds limitation of that paid cases.

RESIDENCY—The law eliminates any residency requirement. It does, however, provide that a person must not have come to New York State for the sole purpose of receiving medical care. Any person in the state will be covered.

FEDERAL PARTICIPATION—The federal government will not share in expenses for those persons between 21 and 65 who were not previously covered under federal-state medical programs. The program previously covered include aid to the blind, disabled, physically and mentally handicapped and dependent children. The state and local governments will assume the full expense for aid to any others in the 21 to 65 age group.

3,421 NLRN Applications

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board said today it processed a record 3,421 applications for employee representation elections the first quarter of this year.

Fire was discovered at 9:33 p. m. Monday in the wooden walk along the old Wooden bridge on Route 55 between Napanoch and Honk Hill. Napanoch firemen under Chief Donald Wilhelm responded and extinguished the blaze before serious damage was done. The wooden bridge at the site is not considered strong enough for the passage of school buses, fire equipment or heavy trucks. Damage was confined to the walk along the bridge. At 12:45 p. m. Monday Highland firemen were summoned for a grass fire.

Adopt Ordinances

owners who own lots or houses on Partition Street that there is a village ordinance governing dumping of garbage and those violating the ordinance can be prosecuted and fined, McCaig's warning came as a result of the fire which occurred three weeks ago on the site known as "the old dumping grounds" in back of the service station on Partition Street. The commissioner said the fire brought out the fact that residents on the street are dumping garbage in the rear of their backyards, a situation that cannot be allowed to continue.

The Board discussed new legislation which provides that a municipality cannot issue a permit for work unless, the employer shows that insurance to cover payment of benefits under the Disability Benefits Law has been provided. Such notice was received from the New York State Workmen's Compensation Board and village trustees will adhere to this ruling in the future.

The Board also gave permission to the local Babe Ruth League to hold its annual Tag Day on July 4 in the village, and granted exemption papers to three firemen of C. A. Lynch Fire Company. Papers were executed for Richard Mignano, William Mergendahl and James Mergendahl. New members were accepted into two local companies: Dale Dennitt, C. Lynch; and William R. Hayes and John Mulligan, Washington Hook and Ladder.

The Board had high praise for police officer George Derbyshire, who recently completed a basic training course with the Municipal Police Training Council. The Council advised the Board that Derbyshire's final rating was 93 per cent, the highest attained in a class of 63 officers attending. Only one other man in the group made the same score. Village Clerk James V. Gage was instructed to write Derbyshire, congratulating him on this excellent record at police school and extending the appreciation of the Board for time and effort spent in the course.

A letter from Saugerties resident Richard J. Luther commended police officer Donald Playford for polite and courteous treatment accorded Luther in the course of news writing for a local radio station.

Appoint Three Patrolmen

In another matter concerning the police department, Police Commissioner Charles W. Steele Jr., read a letter from the Department of Civil Service, advising that three men had passed patrolmen's examinations. The Board immediately appointed all three as probationary patrolmen for Saugerties. Already on duty are Donald Playford and Anthony Scarscell, John Kiebart, Maple Avenue, Cementon, who assume his duties in two weeks when final papers are approved. Commissioner Steele also indicated that he would see that a patrolman be assigned to the corner of Route 9W and Barclay Street to direct traffic Sunday between 10:45 and 11:15 a. m., in accordance with a request received from Trinity Episcopal Church.

In a gesture that combined sentiment and respect for a job well done, the Board voted to retire the Police Chief badge worn by recently retired Police Chief Harold Mills, a veteran of more than 35 years with the local force.

Firemanship School

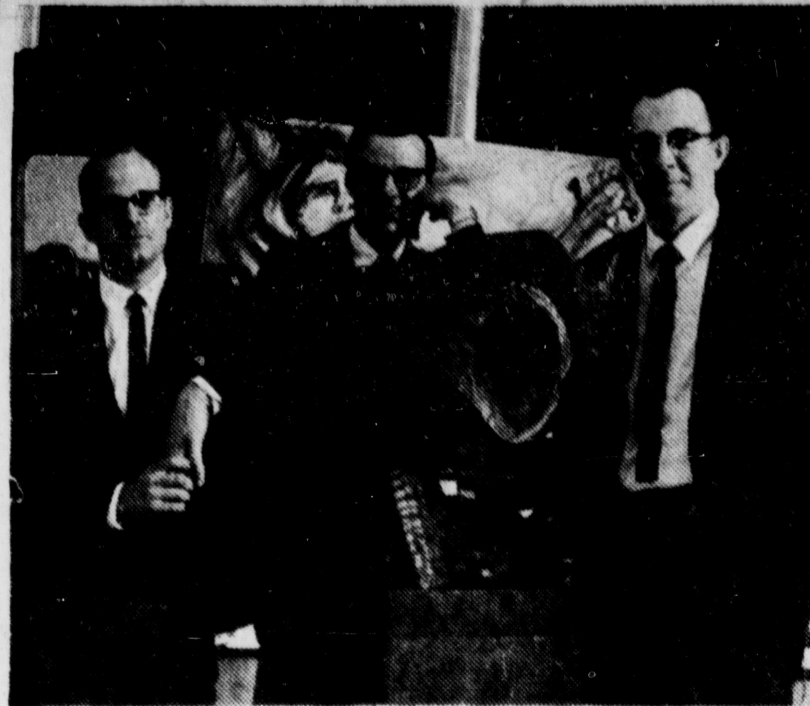

Announcement was made that through the efforts of John Hohenstein, captain of the Snyder Hose Fire Company, and George Warringer, second assistant chief of Saugerties, the Fire department is currently holding a 12 weeks school on essential firemanship. Classes began last Wednesday in the Snyder Hose meeting rooms and will continue every Wednesday for 12 weeks. Any member of any volunteer fire company in the area is invited to attend this school, whether he is a village fireman or not.

Local firemen and other people attending functions in the Municipal Building have requested the Board to install a public phone in or near the building. The village clerk will contact the telephone company to see if this can be arranged.

An earlier complaint that lighting in the Saugerties Public Library was inadequate had been investigated by Buildings Commissioner Arthur D. York and Librarian Elizabeth Layton. Their tour of the building showed that lighting was adequate, York said.

Parks Commissioner Richard J. Underhill advised the Board he is still receiving applications for lifeguards and aids at the municipal bathing beach; said those to be employed will be notified by mail shortly.

The Board also agreed to a name change of Vidi Comm, Inc., to Vide Comm of Saugerties, Inc. telephone company purposes; set a special Board meeting for 5:30 p. m. Tuesday, May 31, for the purpose of carrying all outstanding bills at the end of the fiscal year; welcomed newly appointed village attorney Daniel Lamb to his first Board meeting; and made note of the fact that the Board has received numerous compliments on the condition of Seamon Park, all of which made reference to the beauty of the area.

Slate Exhibition Of Teachers Here

A well-varied exhibit of art by the art teachers of Ulster County opens today at the Kleinfert Gallery in Woodstock.

The exhibit, sponsored by the Ulster County Art Teachers Association and under the direction of Kenneth White, Bearsville, will run from today to May 30. Area art teachers who will show paintings, drawings and sculpture are: Warren Clark, Wallkill; Joseph Crumley, Wallkill; Paul deLaurea, Oontonagon; Donald Jennings, Oontonagon; Gene Michaels, Marlboro; Gladys Plate, Oontonagon; Ken White, Oontonagon; and M. Frank Wright, New Paltz.

The Kleinfert Gallery is available to the teacher's group through the courtesy of the Woodstock Guild of Craftsman.

Garden Club Shop

The June meeting of the Woodstock Garden Club will be held Wednesday, June 1, at St. Gregory's Episcopal Church parish hall. This will be in the nature of a workshop, participated in by all club members, for the coming flower show in July.

The meeting will be convened at 11 a. m. with a sandwich luncheon brought by each member. Hostesses for the afternoon tea will be Mrs. Schuyler Schultz, Mrs. Kitty Gregg and Mrs. O. E. Marquardt.

Priority Tag

sembly Monday but changed signals after a sizable bloc of lawmakers begged to be excused to attend a funeral in Nassau County.

While the school - aid matter kept the legislative mill humming Monday, the lawmakers kept close watch on these developments:

—Travels and Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges gave their charges a week-long holiday beginning tonight. Brydges, the Republican Majority Leader in the Senate and Travla, noted that a two-day Jewish holiday was to begin Wednesday and that Memorial Day would fall next Monday.

—The men upon whom New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay depends essentially for passage of his $520-million tax program — Brydges and Assembly Minority Leader Perry B. Duryea Jr. — cascaded criticism upon the Republican mayor. They took sharp exception to his use of the phrase "political cowardice" Sunday in connection with their treatment of his program, especially a proposal to impose a city income tax on city residents and commuters.

—Republicans and a few Democrats chorused resonant rejection of a plea for Senate consideration of bills to make the legislative ethics code tougher than it is. Assembly Democrats had approved the bills on May 5 in a form that many observers viewed as deliberately designed to guarantee defeat in the Senate. The legislation deals closely with lawyer-legislators, bulk of the Legislature.

The school - aid issue boiled to a choice between Republican and Democratic plans for spending the same amount of state money to assist local school districts.

Travla, who has emerged as a doggedly firm trader in the legislative bargaining, made necessary by the Legislature's politically split personality, has revised his "last-offer" plan of two weeks ago to include a change sought by the Republicans. At the same time, the speaker is pressing for a feature he wanted inserted in the program.

The net effect of the first change would be to extend for at least another year a grant of about $5.8 million in special aid for about 148 school districts that have relatively high real-property valuations.

Travla also wants to give permanent status to a provision designed to allocate about $22 million in aid for so-called "low - spender districts." It would allow them to compute their state-aid entitlement according to the amount they are spending currently — instead of being forced to operate schools. Republicans had offered to do this for one year, keeping open the option to renew the system. Travla's program makes no provision, however, for a COP proposal to extend "density" aid to about 40 medium-sized cities and school districts at an estimated cost of an extra $4.5 million. Such aid now is extended only to the state's six largest cities—New York, Buffalo, Syracuse, Rochester, Yonkers and Albany.

Oontonagon Facing Some Relocation For Equalization

Thursday has been set aside by the Oontonagon Board of Education for a special meeting to discuss possible relocation of elementary school boundaries for attendance purposes. The Board will open its meeting at the West Hurley School at 8 p. m.

The Oontonagon district, as is the case with many growing rural school districts, is constantly faced with the problem of equalizing class size by using the existing rooms in the district regardless of their geographical location. During the 1966-67 school year both the West Hurley and Bennett Schools will begin to show pupil population growth so that alternatives to increasing class sizes must be considered. Parents in the district are invited to attend the meeting to observe the Board in action as it attempts to solve these problems.

On Tuesday, May 31 at the high school building at 8:30 p. m., transportation policies of the district will be reviewed and particularly as they related to a bus accident which occurred March 22.

At its regular May meeting, the Board of Education resolved to conduct an inquiry to: Hear evidence concerning the maintenance and operation of bus 33 of Lakeview Transit Co., particularly during the period of March 9 to March 22, and consider if such evidence requires further action by Board of Education.

Hear evidence concerning any revised procedures aimed at assuring safe operation of vehicles used for pupil transportation. Review Board of Education rules, regulations and policies to assure the sufficiency of rules, regulations and policies.

Hear any other evidence and take any other action deemed necessary as a result of this inquiry. Again, the public is invited to observe the School Board in action as it attempts to take further precaution in the interest of pupil safety.

Teenager Recalls Events Relating To Forest Jaunt

Linda Cousins, 17, of Woodstock, one of two teenage persons who became the object of a search on Overlook Mountain on May 16 after they failed to return from a Sunday afternoon mountain climb today pointed out that she and her companion, 16-year-old Mark Rodriguez of High Woods, had decided to remain on the mountain after they determined they would be unable to reach the fire tower before darkness overtook them.

Armed with a radio and a picnic lunch, they had started to climb Overlook Mountain not realizing how long it would take. At 6:15 p. m. they stopped for their picnic lunch and it was after completing their lunch that they realized their hour was too late to reach the summit before darkness overtook them. They built a fire and spent the night on the face of the mountain attempting to reach the summit in darkness. They were found next day by searchers within sight of the fire tower.

Drivers Are Fined

Two drivers charged with speeding were fined in city court today. Alfred Horowitz, 45, of Box 335, Kingston, paid $15 and Alfred Menimi, 35, of High Falls, paid $10. Stella M. Fortin, of Port Ewen, charged with driving with insufficient lights, was fined $5. Also charged with speeding and fined Monday were Philip Benedictus, 35, of 126 Linderman Avenue, who paid $20, and Lester Staggs, paid $10.

Loves American Freedom

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The beauty queen spoke not of the thrill of being Miss USA or the prospect of stardom, but of the joy of freedom.

"It's great to be free and to be an American," said Maria Judith Remenyi Monday, three days after being crowned Miss USA. "You may not realize how wonderful it is to be an American unless you have lived under oppression of the Iron Curtain."

Miss Remenyi lived in Communist Hungary until the abortive revolution in 1956 when she escaped with her parents and younger sister.

Adjourn Bailey Hearing to 26th

City court hearing of a first degree manslaughter charge against Daniel Hill Bailey, 32, of 167 Abeeel Street, was again adjourned today, this time to Thursday.

He is accused of beating early last Saturday, his wife, Carrie, who was later found dead in their second-floor apartment.

Police went to the house after reported incessant crying of a baby in the Bailey apartment. The charge against Bailey, who police said, had made a round of downtown taverns was lodged early Sunday after investigation and questioning by detectives.

Attorney Frank Martocci was assigned by Judge Hubert A. Richter to represent Bailey and Assistant District Attorney James H. Fisher appears for the prosecution.

Ky Given Pledge

proposal to add five civilians to its membership.

While Ky defended his military action against Da Nang as essential to preserve the nation, 400 Buddhist demonstrators marched peacefully before the guarded U.S. Embassy to protest the crushing of the Da Nang revolt. The marchers included 150 rebel monks.

May Starve Out Dissidents

Rather than a direct troop move like the one against Da Nang, the government appeared to be planning to cut off Hue from the rest of the country to starve out the dissidents. Loyal troops held positions around the old imperial capital.

Ky was asked how he planned to bring the dissidence to an end in Hue as he emerged from the political congress. He told reporters: "I don't know yet. We will see."

Some 500 students paraded around Saigon University with banners demanding national elections and withdrawal of Ky's troops from the northern provinces, where the Buddhists and military leaders opposed to Ky have been challenging his authority for two months. Police did not interfere with the orderly demonstration.

Release 2,000 Followers

The government released some 2,000 Buddhist followers who had been held inside the Buddhist Institute by a cordon of troops and five rows of barbed wire following a wild anti-American outburst Monday.

Handful Left

The exodus left only a handful of monks, institute employees and Boy Scouts inside the large compound. But the Buddhist leadership still planned an anti-government "March of Peace" in Saigon Wednesday to show opposition to the government.

The U.S. Embassy announced that an American fired the shot that killed a Vietnamese soldier in front of the Buddhist Institute Monday and triggered the anti-American riot. The rioters burned an American truck and Jeep before troops restored order.

An embassy spokesman said a guard on a gasoline truck fired the shot when it was surrounded by a crowd of Vietnamese outside the institute. He quoted the soldier as saying: "It seemed like everyone started to move in on us. I yelled to them in Vietnamese to move away. They continued to surround the vehicle. I fired my weapon to the ground. I had no intention to kill."

Ambassador Lodge wrote the Buddhist Institute expressing deep regret and sympathy for the victim's family, the spokesman said. He added that compensation would be paid.

Greatly Relieved

Although Ky sent his troops in Da Nang nine days ago without consulting U.S. officials, the Johnson administration was greatly relieved that the premier had accomplished his goal without precipitating a full-fledged civil war.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk came out of a meeting with congressional leaders in Washington and told newsmen: "Our hope is this matter will be resolved before very long."

As Da Nang's opened their doors and swept away the rubble left by a week of fighting, U.S. Air Force and Marine jets began returning to the big air base on the outskirts of the city. The planes hastily took off Saturday for other bases after rebel forces mortared the field.

Planes to Return

Spokesmen said all Air Force planes would be back by tonight and all Marine planes by Wednesday.

Two squadrons of Marine F4B Phantoms and Air Force fighters and cargo planes took off from the field, indicating a resumption of normal operations.

The 1st Corps military headquarters in Da Nang also came back to life. Brig. Gen. Tran Thanh Phong, Ky's acting commander, estimated that 80 per cent of the staff had returned to duty and that 60 per cent of the military units in Da Nang had returned to their stations.

The 3,000-man government task force sent by Ky to crush the rebellion continued searching for isolated snipers and weapons. Its chief, Brig. Gen. Du Quoc Dong, reported no opposition. He said an ordinance charged with rebel troops across the Da Nang River just "stay in place. They cause no more trouble."

After an inspection of the Tinh Hoi pagoda, where 400 rebels surrendered Monday, Dong said four more 60mm mortars, three machine guns and 20 other weapons had been found. He said this brought the number of captured rebel weapons to 1,250.

Bearers were Herman Smith, James Maines, Harold Bennett, Newton O'Bryon, John Lowther and Harold Wilsey. The flag which draped the casket was presented in behalf of the United States government by Past County Commander Peter Williams.

Discovers Open Space

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson discovered a small open space in the asphalt jungle of New York City Monday that seemed to please her almost as much as the country near the Pedernales River in her native Texas. The First Lady came to New York to help dedicate a new plaza at the Jacob Riis House, a 20-year-old public housing project. The plaza includes a 1,000-seat sunken amphitheater, surrounded by a brick and timber pergola and a large playground.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By JIM GILPATRIC

As Memorial Day approaches, the words of William E. Gladstone come to mind. He was the brilliant British political figure, 4 times Prime Minister who died in 1898. His words are —

"Show me the manner in which a nation cares for its dead, and I will measure with mathematical exactness the tender

Insurance Cards Issued Here in Medicare Plan

Health insurance cards have now been mailed to over 15 million people 65 and older who have established their entitlement to hospital and medical insurance under the Social Security Act, according to George J. Habernig, Social Security District manager in Kingston. The next large mailing of the red, white and blue cards will be early in June.

Cards for people who did not sign up for the voluntary medical insurance part of the program — which requires a monthly premium payment of $3 — will first be mailed in June. This mailing is being delayed since many among the 1,000,000 people who did not enroll for medical benefits initially have since changed their decisions, and Congress has extended the enrollment period to May 31.

Habernig warned that some older people may not receive cards before the health insurance program starts in July because they have not yet provided necessary evidence of age or other information needed to put them on the medicare rolls. He urged any persons 65 or older who have not supplied the necessary information requested by their social security office to do so promptly. The social security district office will be glad to help anyone having difficulty in obtaining the requested information.

Habernig also said a number of the people who have not enrolled for medical insurance are still working. They may think they must retire before they can apply for health insurance. Others may have failed to act in the belief that they must have been employed in work covered by social security to qualify for health insurance. Medicare benefits are payable for persons 65 or over whether or not they have ever worked under social security and whether retired or still working, he pointed out.

He said that the social security is open daily except Saturday, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., to help people who want information about signing up for health insurance. The office is also open from 5 p. m. to 9 p. m. on Friday for people who are unable to call during the regular daily hours. The office is at 57 Albany Avenue.

Cubans to Compete

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Havana radio says nearly 300 Cuban athletes will compete in the 17 sports events scheduled for the Central American and Caribbean Games in San Juan, Puerto Rico, June 11-25.

CANTOR IS HONORED—A gift and plaque is presented to Cantor Julian C. Lore at a farewell party in his honor Sunday night at Temple Emanuel social hall. Cantor Lore who has served the local Temple for the past 13 years as music and religious school director will be leaving with his family Aug. 1 to assume a similar post at Temple Beth Shalom, Montreal, Canada. More than 250 persons attended the festivities and brief program. At the presentation ceremony are (l-r) Gerald Gruber and Dr. Saul Goldfarb, co-chairmen, Cantor and Mrs. Lore and their children Amy and Nelson. They also have another child, Jordan. Kennedy Points To Grave Dangers In Use of LSD

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy called today for coordinated government supervision of the use of the drug LSD which he said "has become a social problem."

In a prepared statement opening public hearings by a Government Operations subcommittee he heads, Kennedy said he hopes to find a pattern for coordination, cooperation and communication between government agencies in the LSD inquiry.

The New York Democrat noted that LSD, which sometimes gives unsupervised users hallucinations, has been available for more than 20 years.

"Suddenly, almost overnight," he said, "irresponsible and unsupervised use of LSD for nonscientific, nonmedical purposes has risen markedly. Such use carries with it grave dangers."

"And as LSD has become a problem, the possibility has arisen that public reaction will discourage and dry up legitimate research into and therapeutic use of LSD."

Kennedy said federal agencies have "an important medical interest in LSD — the Food and Drug Administration, the National Institute of Mental Health, and the Veterans Administration."

"We will want to know how these agencies have coordinated their efforts in connection with LSD," he said.

"And above all, we will want to know whether our government structure is adequately prepared to deal with all of the problems which LSD now presents."

Today in History

Today is Tuesday, May 24, the 144th day of 1966. There are 221 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1826, Peter Minuit bought Manhattan Island from the Indians for $24.

On this date In 1830, the first passenger railroad in the United States was opened to traffic.

In 1844, Samuel Morse sent the first message by telegraph.

In 1883, the Brooklyn Bridge was opened.

In 1941, the German battleship Bismarck sank the British battle cruiser Hood.

In 1943, U. S. bombers attacked the island of Sardinia.

Cameras Grind Out Viet Film

WASHINGTON (AP) — The armed forces have shot more than a million feet of movie film of the Viet Nam war for military and documentary purposes, spokesmen reported today.

Since last October, the Air Force alone has exposed 524,000 feet of 16mm film in cameras, some of them mounted on aircraft.

The Navy will provide no exact figure, but says its Viet Nam film footage approximates the Air Force level.

Army camera teams, a spokesman said, are exposing film at the rate of at least 200,000 feet a year and perhaps twice that.

Top military officials in Saigon and Washington screen the film as soon as it is processed—sometimes within hours of a combat strike. Selected footage, complete with narration, ultimately is made available for public showing or sent to the National Archives to be preserved.

Tokyo Merchant Pays $11,184 for Peace Ad

TOKYO (AP) — "I'm a little short of cash, but it is my duty to print what I believe," said a Tokyo merchant who paid $11,184 to spread his views on Viet Nam and world peace across two pages of the New York Times.

Morihiro Matsuda's advertisement appeared in the Times Monday morning. He is negotiating for a three-page advertisement in the Times of London, which he said would cost him $15,555.

Matsuda, 45, operates an apartment house and a mail-order business which sells body-building equipment. His wife runs a dressmaking shop. They have two sons, one 2 years old, the other 9 months.

Matsuda denied he was seeking personal glory. "If people say I am, then let them," he said, "but it's not true."

Matsuda said he put his advertisement in the New York Times after Japanese newspapers refused it.

In it, Matsuda called on the U.S. government to set up 50 "paradises" in South Viet Nam for victims of the Vietnamese war. He said these rehabilitation centers would cost $10 billion.

"I believe the United States can afford it if the Viet Nam war stops and America cuts down on its defense spending," said Matsuda.

He said the advertisement he has submitted to the London Times appeals for "British influence on the United States to stop the war."

Describing himself as "uneducated and nameless," Matsuda said he has no political affiliation and is interested in fishing. He said he goes fishing "every day" and thought of his plan for peace in South Viet Nam "four or five years ago while fishing."

He proposed dividing South Viet Nam into two parts, the northern part ruled by a Viet Cong government and the southern part by the present South Vietnamese government.

"I don't know who is right in the Viet Nam war," said Matsuda. "I don't know whether the Communist is okay or not, but I just want to publish what I think. I think everyone is obligated to reveal one's thoughts."

Dear Abby . . . Kids' Piano Lessons—Never Regretted

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Recently I read a letter in your column by someone complaining because the people next door punished their son whenever he misbehaved by making him practice extra time on the piano. Quite aside from the fact that this can be annoying to neighbors, it is the surest way I know to make a child hate music for the rest of his life. As a piano teacher I have always been under the impression that one studies music to find enjoyment in it.

SCHENECTADY MUSICIAN

DEAR MUSICIAN: As a piano teacher, you must surely know that not every child who hears countless adults say, "I wish my mother takes piano lessons 'enjoys' it. However, I have had MADE me practice when I was young."

But I have yet to hear one person express regrets for having stuck with his music lessons. Even kids who have practice with tears in their eyes are glad their parents didn't permit them to quit when they wanted to.

DEAR ABBY: Would you please solve my problem? Who should take us boys to the barber shop, my mom or my dad? My mom says it's my father's place because father is a man and a barber shop is a place for men and boys. My father says it's my mother's place because she has more time. There are four of us boys in the family and I am 11 and am in the 6th grade. The other three are nine, seven, and three. Thank you.

NEEDS A HAIRCUT

DEAR NEEDS: If at all possible, your father should take you boys to the barber shop. All boys need some time alone with dad, away. Besides, while the barber gets in YOUR hair, it takes you out of your mother's for a while.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine, married 41 years, has confided her problem to me, and I would like your opinion. Three years ago her husband had a stroke. At this time he revealed that he had a "secret" bank account with over $5,000 in it, which he had had for 20 years. His wife was shocked and felt that the only reason he told her about it was because he thought he was going to die.

Since that time my friend feels that her husband cannot be trusted. And if he'd never had that stroke, she never would have known about the money. What prompts a husband to do something like this?

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Knowing nothing about your friend, her husband or their relationship, I can only urge this woman not to jump to any conclusions. Many husbands (and wives) have secret savings away for the good of both. (Extravagance on the part of one or the other may make saving impossible.)

If this is the only evidence your friend has that her husband can't be trusted, she is probably doing him an injustice. P. S. Remind her that when her husband thought the was dying, he revealed his secret to HER.

Threaten Life Of Defendant In Murder Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — From the bench, a startled judge reported a threat to the life of a murder case defendant Monday — touching off a screaming, shouting and tearful uproar.

The defendant, saloon-owner Richard Rock, lurched against a desk sobbing. His pregnant wife tore away from a bailiff and ran to her husband's arms, tears drenching her face.

5 Are Charged

Rock, 33, and four others are charged with murder in the slaying of Dow Wilson, 40, leader of AFL-CIO Painters Union Local 4 who had challenged the handling of money in a Sacramento painters union welfare fund.

Police still are hunting the triggerman.

A telephone rang in Superior Court as Judge Francis McCarthy was hearing attorney Marvin Lewis plead that Rock be freed in bail. A bailiff, Edward Thom, answered and then went to the bench where he whispered to the judge.

Judge McCarthy, relaying the information, said an anonymous voice had asked a court clerk by telephone to tell the judge that "if Rock goes on bail, he is dead."

During the resulting turmoil, the judge denied bail and criticized the attorney for forbidding Thom to restrain Mrs. Rock, 24. The attorney used his legal peremptory right to disqualify the judge from the case.

Heard Arraignment

Judge Norman Elkington took over the case, heard the arraignment and set June 3 for hearing pleas.

Charged with Wilson's murder are Rock; Norman Call, 46, and Max Ward, 47, Sacramento painting contractors who were employer trustees for the welfare fund; Carl M. Black, 47, Oakland auditor who was the fund's auditor; and Clyde Simmonds, 75, Sacramento contractor's association official.

The association appointed Call and Ward to be trustees of AFL-CIO Painters Union 478's welfare fund in Sacramento.

Sture Youngren, 55, Sacramento insurance man who administered the $500,000 fund, committed suicide last Tuesday after telling police it had been looted of upwards of $60,000.

Lloyd Green, 45, official of a painters local in nearby Hayward who had joined Wilson in criticizing the fund's handling, was shot to death May 7. There has been no arrest in that case.

Wilson was shot down on a San Francisco street April 5.

Winners Listed For Best Medical News Reporting

NEW YORK (AP) — Mildred Spencer of the Buffalo Evening News and Nora Applegate of Westchester Rockland newspapers won today the 1966 Empire State Awards for Excellence in Medical Reporting.

The awards were announced by Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham, state health commissioner, at the 62nd Annual Health Conference.

Miss Spencer, first-place winner, received $500 and a plaque in recognition of her reporting on medical affairs. The science writer for the Evening News, she earned a similar award in 1962 and honorable mentions in 1960 and 1961.

Mrs. Applegate, health news editor for the Westchester Rockland newspapers, received a plaque and $250. She won the competition in 1963.

The Public Service Award for a newspaper was not given this year.

The awards, sponsored by the State Health Department and the State Medical Society, included these honorable mentions:

Bernie Bookbinder, Long Island Newsday; Edward Edelson, New York World Telegram & Sun; Rosemary Eng and Peggy Gallagher, Elmira Star-Gazette; David Gardner, Albany Knickerbocker News, and Liz Hannon, Syracuse Post-Standard.

Judges included Joseph Cooley, associate editor of the Troy Record, representing the State Society of Newspaper Editors, and John Maguire of the Albany Times-Union, representing the National Association of Science Writers.

Hold Paltz Students For Charge on Gas

Three 20-year-old students from the State University College at New Paltz are free in the custody of a college official following their arrest early today on a petit larceny charge involving the alleged theft of gasoline from a car in that southern Ulster County village.

Scheduled to appear Friday to answer the charge before Peace Justice Rexford Schneider, Town of New Paltz, were Kevin Matthews, of Bethpage; Michael Garamone, Comack; and Paul Harris, Long Island City.

The trio was arrested about 4:40 this morning by Patrolman Silas Countryman of the New Paltz Village Police, who charged that they took gasoline from a parked car.

Minerals account for about 58 per cent of Cyrus' total exports.

Report Watts Minor Incidents

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A crowd of 100 Negroes gathered Monday night, but dispersed quickly, when police arrested four men in the Negro district of South Los Angeles, police said.

Two motorists, both white, were slightly injured in two rock-throwing incidents, officers said.

They said the crowd of about 100 juveniles gathered after someone threw a brick at a police car in Watts, the Negro area which was the center of rioting last August.

The crowd dispersed after police arrested three men on suspicion of robbery. Police said the fourth man was arrested after he interfered with the arrest of the others.

The area, where violence flared briefly on two nights last week, was otherwise quiet Monday night, police said. Last Tuesday, two newsmen were beaten by youths wielding pieces of lumber. Thursday, rock-throwing incidents were reported.

Death From Natural Causes Is Verdict

Ulster County Coroner William S. Keyser gave a verdict today of death from natural causes in the case of Vladimir Warneko, 70, of MacDaniel Road, Shady, who was found dead Sunday near a barn at the Lake Hill Stable, Route 212 just above the Trading Post at Lake Hill.

Coroner Keyser said that Warneko, who had been under a doctor's care, died from a coronary insufficiency due to myocardial heart disease.

State Police conducted an investigation after the man was found lying near a barn on the Peterson property. The man was found by Kenneth Peterson.

Rocketry Expert At Ohio State Shot to Death

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The "Man and Missiles" column rocketry expert Loren E. Bollinger had written for next Sunday's Columbus Dispatch was in the newspaper today — along with stories about the unsolved murder that ended his life.

Police dug hard for clues in the death of the Ohio State University rocket researcher, 40, whose body was found Monday in a storage room above a tin office he maintained downtown.

Bollinger had been shot five times with a .25 caliber weapon, from close range and from behind or to the side. His wallet was missing. Police estimate the time of the killing as about Sunday midnight.

A bachelor who lived in suburban Upper Arlington, Bollinger spent some of his time away from the university at the little office where he shared space with a recording studio.

Described as quiet and reserved, Bollinger was assistant supervisor of Ohio State's rocket research laboratory. He held assistant professor status in aeronautics and astronautics at the university, where he obtained degrees in 1948 and 1956. He had been on the staff since 1952.

His weekly column was nationally syndicated for a time.

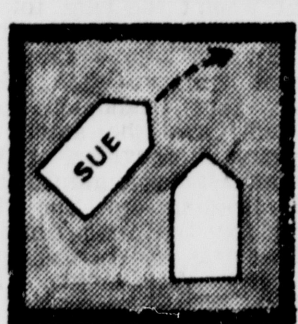

Charge Jersey Youths In Theft of Car

Five North Bergen, N. J. youths were taken to Claverack today to face grand larceny and burglary charges after their arrest early today by State Police at the Rhinebeck-Hyde Park substitution on a charge of possession of a stolen car.

Troopers at the latter substitution identified the five as Nicholas J. Sorrentino, 20; Richard Ingvaldsen, 18; Angelo Meano Jr. 18; Adrian Personn, 18, and a 14-year-old girl, all of North Bergen.

They were arrested about 6:30 this morning in Hyde Park by Trooper Hugh McNallen of the Rhinebeck-Hyde Park station.

Fish Announces Heavy Schedule Of Campaigning

POUGHKEEPSIE — With the June 28 Republican Primary a month away, Hamilton Fish Jr. candidate for Congressional nomination, has announced a heavy campaign schedule in all five counties of the 28th Congressional District.

The 39-year-old Millbrook attorney, who predicts a strong victory over his opponent, Alexander Aldrich, in popular Dutchess County is taking his campaign to every hamlet in the district.

Tonight he will be in Catskill for the opening of his Greene County headquarters from 5 to 7:30 p.m. in the Saulpaugh Hotel.

Gala ribbon-cutting ceremonies have been scheduled and volunteers from all over the district will be present. Refreshments will be served. At 8 p.m. he will go to Coxsack where he will be the guest of the joint meeting of the Coxsack and Greene County Republican Clubs.

Wednesday morning Fish will be guest at coffee hours at the home of Mrs. John S. Smith at 10 a.m., and of Mrs. Richard Dineen at 11:15. In the afternoon he will campaign in Ulster County where he will attend three coffee hours in the town of Marlboro, and also meet volunteer workers in several other towns.

Thursday the candidate will again be in Ulster County in Saugerties. After meeting with volunteers he will go out to stores, homes and factories to meet the voters. At 5 p.m. he will head for Hudson where he will open his Columbia County Campaign Headquarters which is located on Warren Street. At 8 p.m. he will debate his opponent at the VFW hall in Saugerties before members of the Saugerties Republican Club.

On Friday after attending a morning coffee at the home of Mrs. Edward NeJame in Poughkeepsie, he will go to Columbia County for a door-to-door campaign in Ghent, Chatham and Stockport. He will attend a rally of campaign workers in Kingston in the evening.

Sunday Fish will spend the entire day with his family. Monday, Memorial Day, the candidate will attend ceremonies honoring the war dead at the Wasatch State School at 8:15, in Milerton at 10 a.m., in Ardena at 12 noon and at 1:15 in Kingston.

Romney-Javits

all-out conservative is likely to be nominated in 1968, Romney looks good to some leaders as a possible compromise candidate in this situation.

Rockefeller also indicated in his speech, at a GOP fund-raising dinner in Garden City, N.Y., that he will try to help set up a favorite son movement for Javits in 1968. This was regarded by some as part of an effort to bring the New York senator actively into the governor's reelection campaign.

A favorite son arrangement of this kind could leave Nixon stranded for much support from his adopted state and hamper his efforts to get off to a flying start at the nominating convention.

Rockefeller's declaration that he is out of the presidential competition "forever" boosted moderates' hopes that he would not again put a stumbling block in the path of other moderate candidates as he did in the 1964 primaries.

Many party leaders at this point seem to agree that Rockefeller used the right word — "forever" — in renouncing his national hopes.

To Marry Commoner

THE AGUE (AP) — Princess Margaret, third daughter of Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard, plans to marry a commoner next Jan. 10.

He is Pieter van Vollenhoven, 27. She is 23.

Their engagement was announced 14 months ago but no date had been set for the wedding.

Downtown Has New Incendiary Blaze

Another of several downtown fires to date, this year, said to be deliberately set, damaged a vacant house at 60 Newkirk Avenue, owned by the Urban Renewal Agency.

Firemen said the blaze started in a cellar area and spread to the first floor through a stairway. A door was forced in gaining entrance.

An alarm was sounded from Box 2111, Chambers Street at School No. 3, with units from Central and Wiltwyck stations, Union and Rapid companies responding, the Wicks Company covering at Central Station and Excelsior at Wiltwyck Deputy Chief Glynn M. Southard and Capt. Harry L. Sills were in charge. A pump stream was used.

Haver Raps

range a picket line to bring your operations to a standstill. You owe an apology not only to the School Board but to every citizen in Kingston for this most regrettable and disgraceful threat! But it is nothing new for you to ignore the law and take matters in your own hands.

Denies Traffic Emergency

In late January you directed a change in the traffic pattern on Clinton Avenue between John and Pearl Streets for a period of thirty days. This was announced as a "temporary measure" under which the duly established one-way traffic on Clinton Avenue between John and Pearl Streets was altered permitting two-way traffic on Clinton Avenue between these streets. It is common talk that you did this solely for the purpose of enabling the occupants of the Shopping Center adjacent to Clinton Avenue to have a more convenient means of access to the Center from the uptown area by permitting traffic to turn right out of John Street at Clinton Avenue.

There was no emergency! There was no valid reason for you to direct this change. By your unwarranted action you are responsible for violating the law for the past three months.

We are all concerned these days with the conduct of our youth. I have always been a great believer that setting a good example is the best way to encourage proper behavior, particularly with our young people. When our chief executive officer conducts himself as you have during the past four and one-half months—flouting the law, making violent attacks on every public official who disagrees with you, and culminating your activities by threatening to unlawfully picket one of the most important Boards of our City, is it any wonder that the youth of our City are not inclined to respect authority?

I have known you for a long time and I predicted that your conduct, if elected Mayor, would be exactly as it has been. I had hoped that my prediction would be wrong.

You are setting a bad example by your abusive and inexcusable conduct. You are creating chaos where you should be building and encouraging orderly procedures.

If your inability to act as a mature adult cannot be corrected, you should, indeed, favor the citizens of Kingston with your speedy resignation.

Very truly yours,
N. LeVan Haver

Houdaille Approves 2 for 1 Stock Split

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A two-for-one split of common stock has been approved by stockholders of Houdaille Industries Inc. of Buffalo.

They also approved Monday a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share, up five cents from the previous dividend, payable to stockholders of record June 17.

The dividend would be worth 25 cents a share after the stock split. The split shares will be distributed in July.

The company's directors recommended the split.

Houdaille manufactures automotive parts and industrial equipment and is in the construction-materials business.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market made another strong recovery swing today with trading moderately active early this afternoon.

Stocks were up from the start. Airlines recovered vigorously from their selloff of late Monday.

Auto stocks and other key issues put on one of their best performances in weeks.

General Motors leaped 2 points, Ford and Chrysler well over a point each.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 8.85 at 891.31. A half-hour earlier it was up 10.52.

Corporate bonds were mostly unchanged. U.S. Treasury bonds declined.

block vote candidate," raising a racial issue in the contest.

Democrats and Republicans stage runoff races in Oklahoma for nominations for governor. Former Gov. Raymond Gary and Preston Moore, a former American Legion national commander, are contesting for the Democratic nomination.

Republican contenders are State Sen. Dewey Bartlett and John N. Happy Camp, a Waukomis banker. Republicans also have a contest between Pat Patterson and Don Kinkaid for their party's Senate nomination.

In Kentucky, Republican Sen. John Sherman Cooper has only nominal primary opposition. The prospective Democratic nominee is John Young Brown, a Lexington lawyer.

Nominations for House seats also are being made in Kentucky and Oregon. And Oregon also nominates candidates for governor.

Primary candidates for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in Oregon are State Treasurer Robert Straub and State Sen. Ben Musa. Republican candidates are Secretary of State Tom McCall and John L. Reynolds.

See Uphill Fight

Meanwhile Kenneth R. Harding, executive director of the Democratic Congressional Committee, said in an interview his party faces an uphill fight in November but predicted that a surprisingly large number of the bumper crop of 72 freshman Democrats in the House will be re-elected in November.

Republicans have repeatedly predicted House gains ranging from 30 to 60 seats in November.

Harding said the major battleground as usual will be the so-called marginal districts, those carried by less than 5 per cent of the vote. Of the 112 marginal districts in the current House, 63 are held by Democrats and most of these were traditionally Republican before 1964.

Of 72 Democratic freshmen, 47 defeated GOP incumbents or won in normally Republican districts in the Johnson sweep of 1964.

"The surprising thing is going to be how many of these do survive," Harding said.

Wilson Supports

other milk marketing areas. The Ulster County Assemblyman said the proposed legislation, which was aimed primarily at large chain stores, would be of great benefit to all local milk dealers in Ulster County, and would help all those engaged in the sale of milk at the local level to make a fair and equitable profit on their products.

The Ulster County Assemblyman also said the Henderson bill would go far in correcting a problem which has become quite widespread in the milk industry in Ulster County and throughout the State, where certain stores are able to buy and sell their milk from other marketing areas without having to obtain a milk dealer's license, and can then undersell the local wholesalers and retailers.

Assemblyman Wilson pointed out that since the pressure of normal competition in the milk industry has become so keen, and the ever-rising cost of operation at the local level has become so much of a burden, every means must be found to stop any form of unfair competition from damaging this vital industry. Wilson added that he felt passage of the Henderson bill would solve at least one major problem facing the Ulster County dairymen and retailers.

Raymond Murphy, 46, owner of the yacht Sea Lark, and crewmen Bill Rogers, 36, and William Linn, 60, were rescued Monday afternoon after the first mate of the Cape Marina spotted Murphy waving his shirt from atop the bobbing 4-by-6 foot box.

The Cape Marina was the third ship sighted, and after the first two didn't stop the trio had all but give up hope, Murphy said.

"We kept drifting in circles," he said. "We wouldn't be here today except for that fishbox."

Upstate Woman Dies in Blaze

WESTFIELD, N.Y. (AP)—A 55-year-old woman died today in a fire that destroyed her house trailer at Portland, about six miles east of here.

Firemen found the body of Mrs. Beulah Woodruff in the ruins.

Her husband, Vincent, 55, escaped unharmed. Police said he told them he heard his wife screaming that the trailer was burning but he could not find her because of dense smoke.

counted family relationship as an "irrelevant" factor.

'Proud' of Service

He said that as for qualifications, he has 10 years governmental experience, including three years' service as executive assistant to Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, who is his cousin. In comparison, he said, "My opponent (Fish) has no vital experience" in government. He said that Fish, who maintains a law office in New York City, was limited in such service as a foreign staff member in Dublin from 1951-1952.

Aldrich said that he was "proud" of his service as executive assistant to Governor Rockefeller, which he said was a vital part of his preparation for service to this area on local, state and national levels. He emphasized that his family relationship with the governor was "irrelevant" to the campaign and to the issues.

Comments on 'Credit-Taking'

He said that Congressman Resnick was "taking credit" for a number of recent programs which he said actually were made possible by others. He said that if legislation or federal grants affecting this area were passed, "all of a sudden" Resnick would step forward and take credit for their realization.

Commenting on a question about being a "carpetbagger"—a person who reputedly moves from one voting area to another for political advantage—he said that his opponent has established a residence in Millbrook while practicing law in New York. "What difference does it make?" he asked, as long as the people are given the best governmental service.

Other Issues

Aldrich said there was "no answer" available at present on the South Viet Nam crisis. During the question-and-answer period, the GOP candidate also discussed water supply, regional planning and transportation problems.

As for his health, he said he was following an active campaign schedule and that it has no apparent effect on his health, and should provide no obstacle to his service as Congressman.

"I feel we are going to win," he told his guests.

Representatives of the press attended from throughout the Congressional District including Ulster, Dutchess, Greene and Columbia Counties.

Aldrich is scheduled to debate Fish at a program 8 p.m. Thursday in the VFW hall in Saugerties.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

by ROGER E. SPEAR
Investment Advisor & Analyst

Couple Advised Against Holding 'Flyers'

Q: "We are thinking of our retirement ten years hence and have been building a fund of growth issues to help us at that time. We have Texas Gulf Sulphur, Syntex, Fairchild Camera and American-South African investment. We are considering adding Zenith; Ionics; Xerox and Comsat. Are we on the right track?" B. W.

A: You may well be, looking ahead ten years, but in the interim it seems to me you have too many high flyers in hand or in prospect. If we have another downside explosion—such as we have recently experienced—the stocks you own or contemplate buying could take a further beating. I like all but one of the stocks you mention for long-term growth.

American-South African Investment has its holdings in an area which I consider very unhealthy from an investment standpoint. The company's extensive investments in gold mining shares, however, give the stock a strong defensive position and I would hold for the present. For future purchases, instead of Ionics and Comsat, I would consider more conservative and lower price-earnings ratio stocks. I suggest Consolidated Foods and Owens-Illinois to lend stability to your list.

Q: "I saw in the paper that you recommend state bonds. When will North Carolina bonds be on sale and are they a direct obligation?" B. F.

A: I do recommend tax-exempts to persons in upper income brackets. There is no new issue of North Carolina bonds scheduled for this month. All tax-exempts are direct obligations unless specifically tied to a particular Authority and so labeled. North Carolina's AAA bonds are rather scarce and quite rich. There are some 3s of 1971 available as this is written, and these are selling to yield 3.25 per cent.

If you wish a higher yield, there are State of California 3 1/2s of 2008, offered on a 3.70 basis. These are AA bonds and very high grade indeed.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Cyclist Is Hurt In Rt. 209 Crash

A Southern Ulster County motorcyclist was injured when his vehicle was upset about 1 a.m. today on Route 209 about a mile north of Kerhonkson.

State Police at the Ellenville substation said that Edward Hanigan, 32, of Accord, was taken to Ellenville Community Hospital for treatment of severe scalp cuts and arm and leg abrasions. They said that Hanigan was driving a motorcycle north on Rt. 209 when the vehicle left the right shoulder of the road, went out of control and spun around, causing the driver to fall to the ground. Hanigan was taken to the hospital by a passing motorist.

Trooper F. H. Steiner investigated.

The Free Will Baptist Church was organized in 1727.

Two Drivers Fined, Licenses Revoked

Two drivers charged with driving while intoxicated were sentenced in city court today after pleading guilty.

One was lodged against Leonard M. Anderson, 44, of 134 1/2 Linderman Avenue, Monday after a two-car mishap at Fair and Henry Streets reported at 1:20 p.m. He was also booked on a one-way street charge.

Police said the other car was driven by Valerie VanDyke, 18 Mill Street. Officers Edward Ortlieb and Curtis VanDemark investigated.

Anderson was fined $50 plus revocation of his license and he paid $10

Lakes Area Hit By Variety of Violent Weather

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Thunderstorms, high winds and scattered tornadoes slapped a large slice of the nation's mid-section late Monday and the Weather Bureau says more severe weather can be expected today.
Thunderstorms, sparked by a cold front stretching from upper Michigan to central Texas, splattered portions of the Great Lakes area and the Ohio River valley early this morning. Behind the cold front, cooler air spread southward into the north and central Plains.
Although dozens of violent storms and twisters were reported Monday, property damage appeared moderate and injuries were few.
Funnel clouds touched down in Texas, Missouri, Illinois, and Iowa. For the most part, damage appeared limited to farms and rural communities.
Among areas hardest hit was Astoria in central Illinois, where authorities said a tornado severely damaged a grain elevator, houses, trees and power poles.
Civil Defense crews reported heavy damage in Murphysboro, Ill., where hail, high winds and heavy rains raked the countryside.
Winds up to 70 miles an hour swept southeastern Wisconsin, and Madison recorded 3.57 inches of rain. Police reported one storm-related highway death. Four persons were slightly injured when winds ripped roofs off houses and bowled over out-buildings in the Watertown and Waukesha, Wis., areas.
At Cape Kennedy, Fla., high winds flipped two trailers, knocked in doors at rocket assembly buildings and inflicted minor injuries on six persons.
Early morning temperatures ranged from 35 at North Platte, Neb., to 85 at Laredo, Tex.

Wants Wooden Spoon
WASHINGTON (AP) — "Get me a wooden spoon," commanded President Johnson. Deputy White House press secretary Robert H. Fleming was puzzled by the unusual order, but he did as told.
Fleming said he found out later that Johnson, using a metal spoon the night before to scrape some tapioca from a pan, had awakened his wife and had been scolded for raiding the ice box. He related the incident Monday to a group of labor editors.
How about reports of Johnson's quick temper?
"He does speak up sharply, when irritated by something," Fleming said. But "there is no follow-up. He doesn't stay angry."
But Johnson expects his aides to match his pace. "I would like it if he had some hobbies to take up more of his time," Fleming said.
"There is a need for a union at the White House," Fleming said. "We need a five-night, 30-hour week so we can get that much sleep."

Coast Feels Quake
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A moderate earthquake jarred a wide segment of the northern Sacramento Valley Monday night. There were no immediate reports of injuries or damage.

Only 12 Show Up
Health Department officials said that 2,000 of the 2,500 preschool children normally daily served by the child health stations were turned away on the first day the nurses failed to report for duty. The stations that remained open served only a fraction of their normal number of patients.
The 94 stations provide care for children, giving them medical examinations, and various immunizations.
Only 12 nurses showed up for duty Monday out of 302 full-time public health nurses and 180 full-time staff nurses. A total of 282 public health nurses had tendered their resignations, effective Monday. There were 470 absentees, including many who stayed away from work in sympathy.
Scores of Health Department physicians also stayed away from work. Most of those who reported for duty refused to do the work of the absent nurses, and they handled mostly emergency cases.
Dr. Arthur S. Bushel, acting health commissioner, said the curtailment of services created "a potential for contagion."

Nurses Will Vote On Gotham Pay Proposal Today

NEW YORK (AP) — Public health nurses, whose mass resignation has closed 64 of the city's 94 child health stations, vote today on a pay offer by the city.
A spokesman for the nurses has said that if the offer was rejected, they would march from their meeting at a mid-town hotel down Broadway to City Hall to Lower Manhattan and picket there.
J. Jerome Olitt, lawyer for the Professional Public Health Nurses Association, has demanded that Mayor John V. Lindsay intervene personally in the dispute between the nurses and the City Health Department.

No Lindsay Comment
There was no immediate comment by the mayor.
Negotiations were resumed briefly Monday, several hours after the nurses' resignations went into effect.
George Williams, president of the nurses association, said the city offered to give the public health nurses the same $7,100 a year that it granted head nurses in the municipal hospitals last week in an agreement that ended a dispute over pay for hospital nurses.
The public health nurses have been demanding a raise from $6,050 to $7,100, retroactive to last Jan. 1.
A spokesman for them said the city's $7,100 a year offer had "unacceptable conditions" attached to it.
The city offer provides that the nurses' job title be changed from public health nurse to head nurse. This, the nurses complain, would mean that they could be required to serve in hospitals, which are run by the Hospitals Department.
Unlike municipal hospital nurses, public health nurses must take competitive examinations—in the same way that policemen and some other city employees do—in order to get appointments. This examination would be eliminated in the city's offer.
The public health nurses contend that elimination of the examination would lower their position.

Only 12 Show Up

36 Junked Cars Are Removed Voluntarily
Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan today reported that the city's effort to get rid of junked cars in various city neighborhoods, which recently started, has resulted in the removal of 36 voluntarily after notice.
A second notice is to be given if no action is taken after the first and if after the second the city gets no results, it will start moving cars and will place liens against owners and property holders to recover cost.
A third notice will be forwarded through the office of Corporation Counsel Vernon Murphy.
A junked car ordinance adopted in 1964 and amended in 1965 provides that the city may act after five days from the date of notice.

B52s Hit Cong Near Coast, Small Ground Fighting
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — American B52 bombers bombed a large Viet Cong troop concentration near the central coast of South Viet Nam today, but only small scattered ground fighting was reported in the war against the Viet Cong.
The U.S. Command announced the loss of two planes — one over North Viet Nam and one in South Viet Nam's central highlands. One of the pilots was killed.
A F8 Crusader jet from the aircraft carrier Hancock was shot down Monday 26 miles southeast of the North Vietnamese port of Vinh. The pilot parachuted into the South China Sea and was picked up by a helicopter after 30 minutes in the water.

245th Plane Lost
It was the 246th U.S. plane lost over North Viet Nam.
An O1F light observation plane went down today — possibly because of Viet Cong ground fire — 25 miles northwest of Pleiku. Other U.S. pilots had voice radio contact with the pilot on the ground, but he was dead when rescuers reached him.
A military spokesman said it was possible that the Viet Cong "got to him."
The B52s attacked an area 35 miles west of Quang Ngai City. The formation from Guam unloaded their 750-pound bombs on what was thought to be about 350 men. A communique described it as a "major enemy troop concentration."
Monsoon storms again curtailed American air attacks on North Viet Nam Monday. The Air Force mounted only one mission, but Navy planes from the carriers Hancock and Kitty Hawk flew 32.
The Air Force pilots claimed destruction or damage to 12 trucks of 20 attacked near the Barthelmy pass, 115 miles north of Vinh. Navy pilots clustered their strikes in the coastal areas of Vinh, Thanh Hoa and Dong Hoa and claimed 14 supply buildings and 22 junks and barges destroyed and railroad tracks cut in 10 locations.
On the ground, the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division reported killing 17 more Viet Cong in eight scattered actions about 20 miles northwest of An Khe and some 260 miles northeast of Saigon.
The helicopter-borne cavalrymen also found 25 Viet Cong bodies in shallow graves to raise the total enemy killed in Operation Crazy Horse to 240 since May 16. The flying horsemen also have captured eight prisoners and seized 51 weapons while reporting only light casualties of their own.
In scattered firefights around Da Nang and Phu Bai, 3rd Division U.S. Marines killed 28 Viet Cong, the spokesman reported.

Report Denied
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department has denied reports that Dr. William Haddon Jr., a critic of existing auto safety who has written several studies on the subject, has been chosen to head a new traffic safety program.
Haddon, associate director for the New York Health Agency, has been a part-time consultant to the Commerce Department, helping develop plans and programs suggested by President Johnson's transportation message.

Kennedy Opposes Klein for Post, Prestige on Line

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., has thrown his support to an anti-organization candidate in a move that puts his political prestige on the line.
Manhattan's Reform Democrats said Monday the senator has endorsed their opposition to the proposed nomination of State Supreme Court Justice Arthur G. Klein for Manhattan surrogate.
The Reformers plan to run Justice Samuel J. Silverman against Klein for nomination in the June 28 primary.
It was the first time Kennedy had openly entered an intraparty election contest since he became senator, and some observers regarded his decision as a bid to strengthen his party control in the state.

Reform Leader Edward I. Koch said Kennedy attended a three-hour session here Sunday night at which time he said he planned to oppose Klein and "go all the way" toward Silverman's election.
At stake is a 14-year term at $37,000 a year for the surrogate, who handles wills and guardianships and can appoint people to help settle estates amounting to about $8 million annually in Manhattan. The post is considered one of the richest sources of patronage.
Klein, 56, who has been on the bench since 1956, was designated for the post May 7 by organization Democrats. Since then, Reform Democrats, Liberal party leaders and others have denounced the choice on grounds that Klein has long been associated with the old guard of the Democratic party.
Silverman, 58, has been on the bench since 1963, and formerly was chief attorney for the Foreign Economic Administration.
Klein has the backing of the Republican party as well as Tammany Hall. If he should win the GOP primary, and Silverman the Democratic primary, they would face each other again in the November election.
The Reform Democrats need 2,500 signatures before Friday to make Silverman an opponent of Klein. Kennedy's name is reported to head the vacancy committee named on the Silverman nominating petition.
In the event Silverman died or withdrew before the primary, the committee would pick a replacement for him.

Heat Wave in India
BOMBAY, India (AP) — Three persons and many cattle died Monday in a 10-day-old heat wave.
Nearly 1,350 thatched huts burned down in parched villages around Bezwada City as the temperature soared to 120.
The day's victims brought the heat wave death total to 30.

Five Still Out Mediator Hopeful Of Getting More Unions to Agree

NEW YORK (AP) — David L. Cole, chief mediator of the city's newspaper strike, tries today to persuade more unions to reach an agreement with the World Journal Tribune, Inc., in a bid to settle the month-old strike by this weekend.
The publishers completed agreement Monday with the stereotypers, machinists and electricians and were close to an agreement with the photoengravers, one of five unions still negotiating, when talks were suspended for the night.
Cole made it clear he was hopeful the entire dispute could be settled by the weekend.
"If there is a disposition to settle," he said, "I see no reason why the various disputes could not be settled this week."
Thomas J. Murphy, executive vice president of the Newspaper Guild, said major progress had been made Monday toward an agreement, but he thought it was "far-fetched" to talk about a settlement by this weekend.
The unions are seeking new contracts with the publishing corporation, formed in the merger of the Herald Tribune, the Journal-American and the World-Telegram & Sun.
The unions that have not yet reached agreement in addition to the photoengravers and the Guild are the drivers, pressmen and mailers.

The Guild struck the World Journal Tribune April 24, one day before it planned to start publishing the Herald Tribune weekday mornings, the World Journal weekday afternoons and the World Journal Tribune on Sundays.
A major issue in the dispute has been over the job losses that will result from the merger. Union leaders, who say that more than 2,000 of the 5,700 persons employed on the old newspapers will be dismissed, want the firm to lay off men on the basis of seniority.

Invites Exchange
LEWISTON, Idaho (AP) — Noting the possible move of the New York Stock Exchange from New York City, the Greater Lewiston Chamber of Commerce has issued an invitation for it to move here.
Chamber directors said that when C. Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, visited Lewiston two years ago, he termed views of the scenery and fishing in north central Idaho a "fantastic experience."
